Five-Year Plan Lone Glimmer of Hope

Lawmakers OK $407.5 Million Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A new $407.5 million tax bite confronted New York residents today, with Governor Rockefeller's signature on the compromise tax package approved by the legislature.

For the taxpayer, there was one glimmer of hope: The five-year financing plan also adopted could mean no more new taxes until 1976.

The package, approved with bipartisan support in the special session Tuesday, includes a 2½ per cent income tax surcharge, and higher levies on cigarettes (three cents a pack) gasoline (one cent a gallon) and liquor ($1 a gallon).

Related state budget stories on Page 4.

Democrats provided the essential votes for approval after winning an "understanding" from the Republican governor that school aid, welfare and revenue sharing would not be cut later this year.

The key bill, the income tax surcharge, passed the Senate 35-18 and Assembly 83-62 after four hours' debate. Many observers felt the presence of television cameras by the state educational TV network added to the length of speeches.

With the special session finished after seven working days, lawmakers planned to open the regular, 1972 session with a perfunctory meeting today, then recess until Monday.

It was still undecided when the governor will make his "State of the State" address.

Although some liberal Democrats denounced the compromise as "political blackmail" and "kidnaping," Assembly Deputy Minority Leader Albert Blumenthal, D-Manhattan, made clear that the budget assurances were essential.

"This means $5 billion of protected appropriations that your scalpels will not be able to impair," he told Republicans.

To win Democratic votes for taxes in an election year Republicans also helped approve the $270 million separate transit aid package, to hold down fare increases on New York City area buses, subways and commuter railroads.

The new taxes will cost the average family for four another $62.46 a year.

The income tax surcharge, which applies to 1972 income, is retroactive to Jan. 1, as is a new gift tax.

The cigarette, gas, and liquor charges all start Feb. 1.

Actually, the taxes cover only one-quarter of the $1.5 billion revenue gap forecast by Rockefeller for the next 15 months.

The rest is accounted for by postponing $400 million of aid payments to local governments and schools; a $275 million "freeze" on spending by state offices, and—what the legislature added—phasing out the rest by borrowing over a five - year period.

Rockefeller is required to submit five-year tax and spending estimates by next March to go with the 1972-73 budget due by Feb. 1.

Under assembly estimates, if spending is held to modest increases of 4.2 per cent a year, about half the normal growth, the state will not need increased taxes until 1976. In fact, it would end the 1975-76 fiscal year with a surplus.

However, the plan is not binding on future legislatures.

The current legislature chose not to count on the $400 million in additional federal aid anticipated by Rockefeller. Instead, they decided to pay off part of the debt through short - term borrowing by the state comptroller.

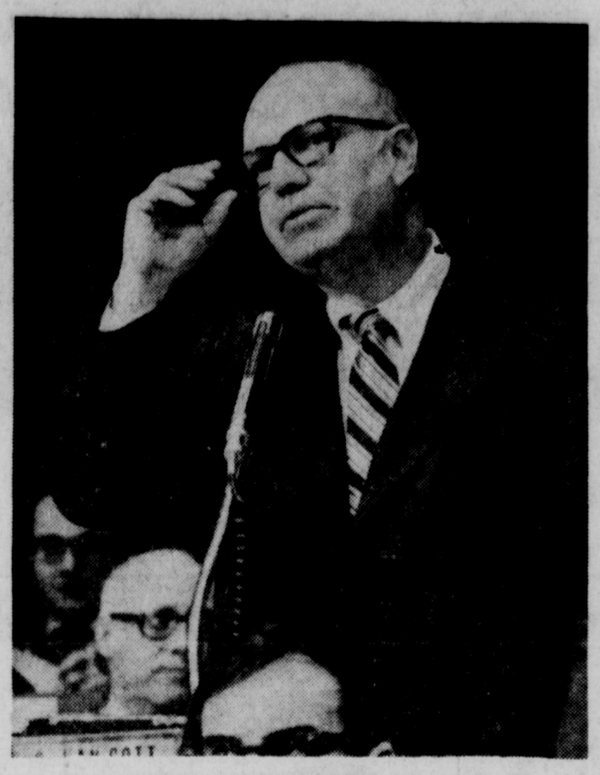

Meanwhile subway and bus riders began paying 35-cent fares today to help prop up a debt-plagued mass transit system that just agreed to a $151.1 million contract settlement with its employes.

The Metropolitan Transportation Authority announced the nickel fare increase and higher bridge and tunnel tolls Tuesday night, immediately following approval of a transit subsidy plan by the state legislature.

The transit package authorizes the Transit Authority, a subsidiary of the MTA, to borrow $200 million from the city and state over the next two years.

The MTA also announced that requests for 20 per cent fare increases on the Long Island Rail Road and the Penn Central Railroad would be decided after public hearings in the next two weeks.

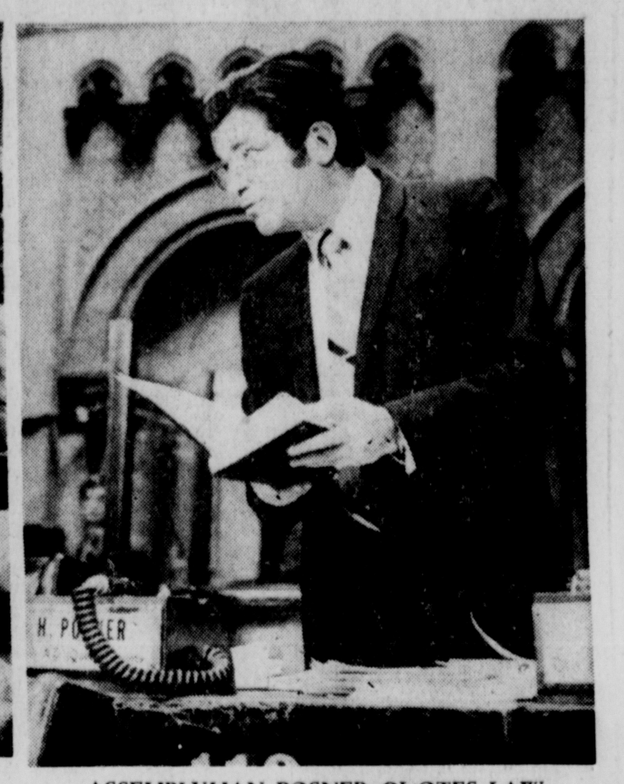

Hearings will also be held for the Staten Island Rapid Transit system, which has asked permission to raise its fare from 22 cents to 35 cents.

Penn Central Trio Accused in $21 Million Conspiracy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Arrest warrants were issued Tuesday for an investment banker, a retired general and the former third highest executive of the Penn Central Railroad on charges they diverted $21 million of the ailing company's funds to build their own fortunes.

Two of those charged in the warrants became uneasy because the company in which they allegedly bought controlling interest with the diverted funds lost millions of dollars, District Attorney Arlen Specter said. As a result, Specter said the third man provided them with attractive young women companions on trips to plush resort hotels on the Riviera and in the United States.

Specter said the conspiracy contributed directly to the collapse of the Penn Central.

According to the arrest warrants, the case involved:

—Diversion of $21 million in Penn Central funds for the illegal purchase of a charter airline.

—Junkets to posh resorts on the French Riviera with attractive young women, procured and paid for by one man to influence the business judgment of the other two.

—Use of $85 million in Penn Central investment funds to manipulate the value of a stock, on which the alleged conspirators made money and the Penn Central lost millions.

The arrest warrants were issued for David C. Bevan, Gladwynne, Pa., former chairman of the Penn Central's Finance Committee; Charles J. Hodge, Boca Raton, Fla., former chairman of the investment banking firm of F. I. DuPont Glore Forgan, advisors to the line; and Brig. Gen. (ret.) Olbert F. Lassiter, Beverly Hills, Calif., former president of Executive Jet Aviation (EJA), Columbus, Ohio.

The three were charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the railroad and fraudulent conversion of railroad funds. The charge still must be presented to the grand jury.

Specter said he expects the three to surrender here by Thursday. They face maximum prison sentences of seven years if convicted.

Bevan called the charges "incredible" and said he was being used as "a scapegoat."

Specter charged that Bevan, Hodge and Lassiter conspired to divert $21 million in Penn Central funds to purchase a controlling interest in EJA, a jet taxi service for executives, and then to build it into a "worldwide freight and passenger system."

EJA never made a profit. The trustees of the railroad are now selling their interest at a $20 million loss.

Bevan and Hodge became concerned by EJA's losses, but a steady flow of Penn Central money to EJA was maintained by Lassiter's procuring young women to accompany Bevan and Hodge in various junkets in the United States and Europe, the warrants said.

Specter said Bevan and Hodges influenced the Penn Central Board to approve purchase of $85 million worth of stock in the Great Southwest Corp. (GSC), a land development firm.

Earlier, the Penphil Co., a small private investment club to which Bevan, Hodge and Lassiter belonged, had bought GSC stock.

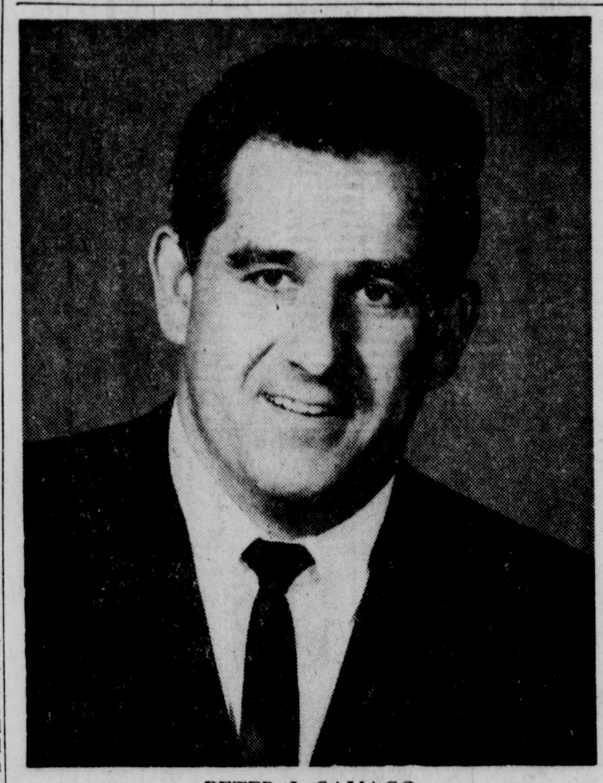

According to the charges, Penphil sold its shares at a huge profit, while the railroad, keeping its shares, has lost $46 million on GSC.

Lassiter was ousted as EJA president in June, 1970.

Bevan was fired from his $132,000 a year post on June, 8, 1970, two weeks before the Penn Central filed for reorganization under the Bankruptcy Act.

Bevan and Hodge also were named in a suit filed by trustees of the railroad last April for allegedly using their positions at the Penn Central for personal profit.

The suit charged that the two, as stockholders in Penphil, realized a 600 per cent profit on their investment in less than 8 years. The case has yet to come to court.

Savago Reelection Expected

Murphy Gets Acting Welfare Post

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Deputy Welfare Commissioner James R. Murphy will be named acting welfare commissioner, Jose Camallonga Jr. of Poughkeepsie will be appointed new Ulster County highway superintendent and Legislative Chairman Peter J. Savago is expected to be reelected chairman of the county board at its organizational meeting Thursday night.

Murphy, a former Republican Fifth Ward alderman, who joined the Department of Social Services in 1964, will serve in his new post until the Legislature selects a person to fill the vacancy being created by the retirement of the present welfare commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons. Reportedly there are many applicants for the position and Murphy is to be named acting commissioner in order to afford more time for screening.

Confirmation of the Murphy and Camallonga appointments is scheduled for approval by the county board at its 7:30 p.m. session in the County Office Building.

Camallonga was one of two candidates under consideration for the appointment of highway superintendent, to fill the vacancy being created by the retirement of Acting Superintendent George Fitchner. He is district local coordinating engineer for the New York Department of Transportation.

Savago's reelection is expected without opposition from fellow Republicans although the minority party is expected to field a candidate. The GOP has a 23-10 edge however.

Savago, presently the dean of the Legislature has served the board for 12 years and has been its chairman and chairman of the old Board of Supervisors for four and one-half years.

Special

He is noted for having lowered county taxes three years in a row, a feat unequaled in the state.

Additional appointments to be made by Savago include the following:

- Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 11) to the Forest Practice Board.
- James Palen (R-Dist. 9) as the local representative to the District Fish and Wildlife Management Board.
- S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2) local representative to the Ulster County Extension Association.
- Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2) and Davis as directors of the Ulster County Soil and Water Conservation District.
- Melvin Mones (R-City) to the Ulster County Mental Health Board.
- Ira D. Warren and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck to two-year terms as associate county historians.
- Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1) and Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) majority and minority leaders of the Legislature as representatives to the Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council, serving in addition to Savago.
- Edward W. Snyder, county budget officer.
- Abram F. Molyneaux, county attorney.

The following are to be reappointed to the Fire Advisory Board: Herbert Faroute, Clayton Elmendorf, Robert Waddell, Charles E. Penney, Edward Mains, Oscar Lambert, J. Gregson Greer, Albert Fox, Granville Myer, Richard McMullen, William Harder, Oscar Newkirk and Stanley Lawrence.

Resolutions to be presented include one by Savago directing department heads to obtain authorization to advertise for public bids. The approval is to come from whatever legislative committee has jurisdiction over the department.

Also, another resolution by Savago calling for all members of the Legislature and staff be authorized to attend conferences pertaining to current information on matters of local government, with allowable expenses paid by the county treasurer.

Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) has filed two resolutions, one calling for investigation of the feasibility of the county subcontracting snow removal in the townships and the other requesting monthly detailed reports of expenditures of all departments whose budgets exceed $100,000.

Girl, 17, Staggers to Safety After Jungle Plane Crash

LIMA (UPI)—A teen-age German girl, her collarbone broken and her body covered with scratches and mosquito bites, walked through the Peruvian jungles to safety from a Christmas Eve plane crash in which all 92 aboard had been believed dead.

Juliane Koepcke, 17, was found walking along a river by two Indian hunters Sunday. She was taken to the nearest town, Tournavista, on Monday afternoon then flown to a hospital in Pucallpa, 37 miles north of Tournavista.

She gave no clear indication if there were other survivors, but said she saw some bodies.

Government authorities, who Sunday had called off the land search for the four-engine Peruvian Lansa Airlines Lockheed Electra, today ordered a major land-air rescue operation to see if there were any other survivors.

The commander of the search operations, Manuel del Carpio, said in Pucallpa that Miss Koepcke was unable to give them many details. He said she told them the plane was hit by lightning while on a flight from Lima to Iquitos, with a stop scheduled at Pucallpa, and crashed in a mountain pass.

"I woke up in the wreckage, with three bodies around me," Del Carpio quoted her as saying. "I don't remember anything else."

He said she said later she had to unfasten the seat belt that still held her, then took a Christmas cake and a sack of candy and began the nine-day walk through the equatorial rain forest that finally ended when the Indian hunters found her on the banks of the Pachitea River.

She still had some of the cake tucked under her arm when she was found, Del Carpio said.

Six crewmen and 86 passengers, including five Americans, were aboard the plane when it crashed. The Americans, all attached to the Summer Language Institute, an educational institution for the Amazon Indians in Peru, have been identified as Harold David of Harrison, Maine, a linguist who has been working with the institute for seven years; Roger Hedges, 37, and his wife, Margery, 34, of Tacoma, Wash., both professors at the institute, David Erickson, 18, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Nathan Lyon, 13, an American born in Peru.

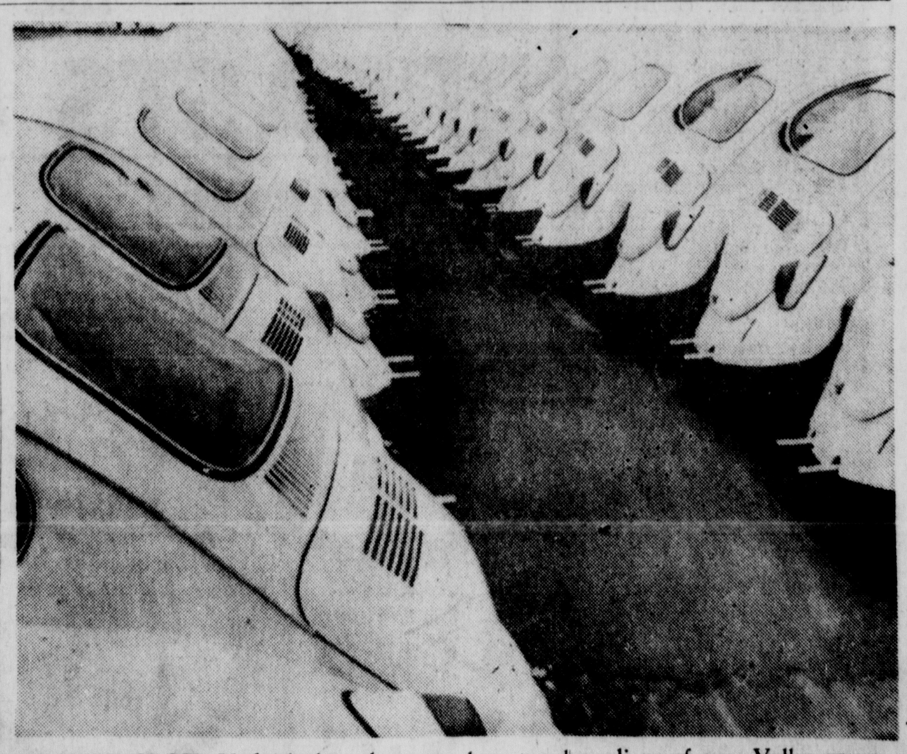

Also aboard the plane was Miss Koepcke's mother, Maria, who was identified as a noted German ornithologist.

The area where the plane crashed on the edge of Andes Mountains, and Miss Koepcke's walk took her through the sparsely populated rain forest that stretches right up to the mountains.

Most of the inhabitants of the area are Indians, many of whom still hunt with blowguns and bows and arrows.

Council Acts on Emergency

Koenig Given Temporary Bus Power

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Common Council, by a unanimous vote Tuesday night, granted Mayor Francis R. Koenig emergency standby powers to negotiate an agreement to provide bus service in the city.

Kingston's bus service was terminated by the Urban Transit Corp. on Dec. 31.

The legislation stipulates that Koenig is to make no permanent arrangements for bus service. The Council retains that prerogative. The mayor is authorized to act immediately to secure bus service for the city from either public or private enterprise "on a temporary basis." Only "established operators" can be considered to run buses on the city's two main routes, uptown and downtown.

The aldermen met in regular session at city hall for the first time in 1972. The Council approved two firms, Kingston Health Care Inc. and Hedda Construction Corp. as "qualified and eligible developers to build a $2 million, 120-bed nursing home in Uptown Urban Renewal Project. A public hearing on the proposal for the construction on Washington Avenue at North Front Street will be held in Council Chambers at City Hall at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 26.

The aldermen also took the first step toward an historic change in the enforcement of emergency snow legislation laws. Under current city law, the mayor declares snow emergencies under which parking is banned on city streets.

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), chairman of the Traffic Committee had a letter read from Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein which outlined a state law allowing that power to be transferred to the chief of police.

The law, passed by the state in 1969, allows the chief during a snowstorm or an order to remove snow, to issue a proclamation closing streets to vehicular traffic, to prohibit, restrict or limit the stopping, parking or standing of vehicles.

Under the law, the public would be given only a minimum of one hour's notice of a snow emergency through the local news media. Klein recommended that "we invoke the local law rather than enact local laws on the subject. The letter was referred back to Mancuso's committee for further study.

The aldermen gave their unanimous approval to the city's Code Enforcement Program. The $588,000 project is being carried out in three sections of Kingston; in Central Broadway and in two areas of Ponckhockie. The program has been underway since mid-1970 but separate approval of the federal-state project was required of the city by the state.

Mrs. Dorothy Rifenbary, president of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, presented a petition with 600 signatures asking the city not to designate city hall as an historic site. The hospital wants to acquire the building at 408 Broadway and demolish it for further expansion. A meeting has been set up for Jan. 13 between representatives of the city, the hospital and the Kingston Landmarks Preservation Commission which designated city hall an historic site in early December of last year. Mrs. Rifenbery characterized the signees of the petition as persons who were sympathetic toward historic landmarks but also concerned dfor the future health needs of the community.

Mayor Koenig notified the Council of two more reappointments, Aaron E. Klein as corporation counsel and James C. Plunket as a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals. Klein's term runs out but on Dec. 31, 1973; Plunket's on Dec. 31, 1974.

Koenig's 1972 budget, proposing a tax rate of $70.73, up $10.98 from the 1971 rate, was presented to the Council and referred to the Finance, Ways and Means Committee.

That committee's chairman, John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward) said he planned to meet with his committee which includes Mancuso and Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward) this week to review the budget.

The Council approved a request by City Treasurer Orrie R. Riehl to borrow up to $280,000 in revenue anticipation notes, if necessary, to meet city expenses until 1972 tax receipts start coming in.

Mancuso reported on his investigation of building violations on the Sussin property at 351-353 Broadway. A letter from City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe noted that many repairs had been made. Still, the owner faces a city court appearance on Friday to answer charges of violating the city building code.

"I do not like to go public on these matters," Mancuso said. "But if it takes headlines to get action, that's what we'll have to do." Mancuso said he had been working on the Sussin matter for more than two years.

At the end of the meeting, Edward M. Norton (D-12th Ward) gave the city 48 hours to correct what he considered hazardous conditions on Spruce Street between Hudson Street and Ravine Street. Norton said the street is caving in and that the condition has existed for several years. He said he most recently brought it to the attention of the mayor and Department of Public Works officials four weeks ago. Norton said he would invoke Local Law No. 1 within 48 hours if the city did not make immediate repairs. Local Law No. 1 puts the city officially on notice of a hazardous street condition and makes the city liable for any injuries or damages caused by that condition.

The Council was recessed at the call of the chair by President Robert T. Gallo. It is expected to reconvene within the next two weeks to act on Mayor Koenig's budget.

Esopus Charges Are Answered

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN

Statements by Town of Esopus Supervisor George Freer on several appointments made by the Republican majority of the Town Board at Monday's meeting have been answered by Daniel Terpening, GOP town councilman.

Freer, a Democrat, charged that the Republican-controlled Town Board used political "favoritism" in replacing several town officers with new appointments. He termed the replacement of two constables "shoddy," and "dispicable."

"The Town Board collectively makes decisions which it feels is in the best interest of the township," Terpening told The Freeman, "and this is true for appointments also." He added, "We intend to operate the town for the well-being of the townspeople."

Commenting on the removal of constables Raymond Burr and John Manganiello, Terpening said, "We took into consideration the experience of all the men involved, and we made a decision that we felt was for the best of the town." He added, "We do what we feel is right."

Manganiello, who had served three years as a constable, objcted to being dismissed without prior notice and called on the town board to issue a statement "that my replacement was in no way motivated by negligency of duty and was purely a political appointment."

Manganiello, a former Interstate Park Police patrolman and the current president of the Ulster County Constables Association, said he felt he was fully qualified for the position.

"If they had told me they were going to put in someone else I wouldn't have felt so bad about it," he said. "I could have resigned and it wouldn't look so bad that way."

Freer's reaction to the changes in the constabulary prompted Terpening to say, "I feel he (Freer) was just playing politics himself."

Terpening admitted that he was "not quite in agreement" with all the personnel changes made at Monday's Board meeting.

Terpening also commented on what he termed a "misrepresentation" on Freer's part that the report he gave o the press Monday was a actual report of what occurred at the Town Board meeting.

"Any report of a meeting hould be true and factual," aid Terpening, "and personal feelings should never be injected. I have serious reservations that Freer's report had the interests of the citizens of the Town of Esopus in mind."

County Schools Close As Light Snow Dusts Area

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

Winter took a turn for the worse this morning as a light dusting of snow slicked Ulster County roads and closed schools.

Although there were no heavy snow accumulations expected, the flurries were enough to cause hazardous driving conditions for communters. State Police and Sheriff's Department personnel reported that there were minor accidents of the fender bender variety during the early morning traffic peak. However no major accidents or tieups were in evidence.

In Kingston, Charles Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, said that his crews had been salting city streets since 4 a.m. Plows were out later in the day coping with the frozen slush of previous storms and the inch or so accumulation of flurries. Cole said that extended forecast service predicted only three to four inch snow fall in the present storm.

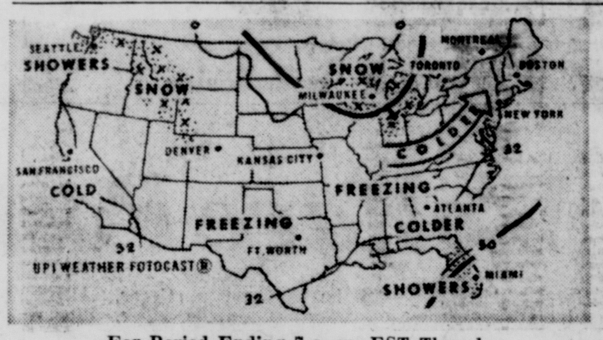

County highway sanders were out in force at 5 a.m. and all traffic was reported moving cautiously. Schools were on snow holiday in most county districts with the exception of Saugerties. Kingston City Schools Consolidated canceled classes but administration officers were open today.

A Kingston Thruway Interchange spokesman said the superhighway had snow with icy spots from Newburgh to the Pennsylvania State Line. From New York City to Newburgh rain prevailed and highway conditions were described as wet.

The snow was driven by wind gusts of up to 40 miles per hour with temperatures hovering in the 20 degree range today making for a below zero windchill factor.

Despite the high winds, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. experienced no power problems "as yet." according to Minford Oldfield, utility spokesman.

The past December which may have been a disappointment to the ski crowd marked the close of the wettest year since 1952. According to Norwood A. Locke of the Kingston City Engineer's office in a year end report it was noted that 45-38 inches of percipitation was recorded during 1971. The 1952 figure is still a record however at 51.32 inches.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Thursday

Snow flurries are expected over the Northern and Central Rockies. Snow and snow flurries are forecast for portions of the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Upper Great Lakes. Some scattered showers are expected over Southern Florida and in the coastal areas of Washington. It will be colder in the Atlantic Coast states. LIP BITING TIME — Senator Edmond Muskie (R) bites his lip as he answers questions during press conference with four Maine television newsmen, before returning to Washington with his family to watch the broadcast of his presidential candidacy announcement Tuesday night. The announcement was taped at Sen. Muskie's summer home at Kennebunk Beach, Me. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Announces Candidacy

Muskie Seeks 'New Beginning'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, coy no more, has begun his declared campaign for the White House, summoning Americans to "a new beginning" while a top Republican accused him of "badmouthing the United States."

The Maine Democrat formally announced his candidacy—obvious for a year—on $30,000 worth of nationwide television time Tuesday night.

"I am seeking the presidency not merely to change presidents, but to change the country," Muskie said in his 10 minute announcement. "I intend to lead—to ask you to make America what it was to Abraham Lincoln—'the last best hope of mankind.'

"Ultimately, of course, what is at stake is your future," he said. "I am not telling you that I can guarantee the best of all possible worlds. All I am asking is that we pledge a new beginning."

Muskie did not mention his Democratic rivals, and he said "it would be foolish to blame all the nation's ills on the present administration."

But he said if President Nixon's administration "had been candid with the country, if they had been straightforward, we could have done far more than we have.

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Muskie seeks to win in 1972 by "stirring fear, exploiting divisiveness and condemning the good, all the while pretending that America's weaknesses and problems are President Nixon's and not his own."

Muskie recorded his announcement Monday at his chilly summer home in Kennebunk Beach, Maine. It was followed by a brief, televised appeal for campaign contributions, to help pay for a race that already has cost well over $1 million.

It is a campaign that has taken Muskie to 34 states since Labor Day as an unannounced contender.

Muskie has gained endorsements from some key party leaders, but his candidacy will face its crucial test in the primary elections ahead.

After a news conference today in Washington and a fund-raising dinner in New York tonight, he heads for New Hampshire to file candidacy for a March 7 leadoff primary in his native New England.

In New Hampshire Tuesday, former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody made known his aspirations by filing petitions for the Democratic nomination for vice president.

"It is constitutionally the second most important post in the land, Peabody said. "The vice president should be selected by the people . . . (not) in a back, smoke-filled room."

Rep. Paul McCloskey continued his campaign through the state, talking to high schoolers in Franklin, N.H..

FBI Information Leak Probe Centered on Security Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI investigation into the latest leaks of highly classified information to newsmen is centered on the National Security Council headed by presidential advisor Henry Kissinger, administration sources say.

The FBI was ordered into the case last week when columnist Jack Anderson began publishing what he said were verbatim notes of high-level White House conferences and meetings involving American policy decisions in the India-Pakistan war and the Middle East situation.

The White House has never acknowledged the Anderson reports but there never has been a denial of their contents and officials are known to be seriously concerned about the disclosures.

The FBI, which will not comment on ongoing investigations, is said by the sources to have checked the departments of State and Defense last week and found no evidence the leaks to Andrson came from either agency.

When asked if this left the investigation in the National Security Council, the sources said yes, but they would not say if the search has narrowed to any particular person.

There has been no use of lie detectors, some officials say, and the investigation at State and the Pentagon was far more routine than in earlier incidents.

In the last reported FBI search last summer, lie-detector tests were given several officials, including four in the State Department, in trying to determine the source of a published story dealing with U.S.-Soviet arms-limitation talks.

It was learned subsequently that State and Defense were cleared in that incident and the leak was traced to the National Security Council.

In his columns Anderson has released some of the contents of notes taken of meetings involving Kissinger, high State Department officials and other important government officials.

These indicated among other things that Kissinger described President Nixon as concerned the administration had not taken a hard-enough position against India's role in the war with Pakistan.

The notes, according to Anderson, reported meetings in early December when the public administration policy was descibed by Kissinger as not being anti-India or pro-Pakistan.

Anderson says he has not used any material that would compromise national security, and released the material to show real administration views as well as misuse of the classification system.

Stephen Bingham Still Missing, Charged in San Quentin Outbreaks

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Lawyer Stephen Bingham, charged with murder in a bloody outbreak at San Quentin Prison last August, has vanished so completely that the district attorney says, "There's a good possibility he's dead."

The FBI and Marin County authorities say they have chased dozens of leads across the nation, from a New York airport to a Yosemite Park campground.

Results: "Zero," says Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales.

"There hasn't been a single shred of physical evidence that he is even alive or dead. Nothing. It's weird," Bales said in an interview Tuesday.

Bingham 29, a Yale-educated grandson of a former Connecticut governor and son of a well-to-do Salem, Conn., family, disappeared just after 6 p.m. last Aug. 21.

About 2 p.m. that day, the state contends, he smuggled a 9-millimeter automatic pistol to convict George Jackson during a visit to San Quentin.

Less than 40 minutes after Bingham left the prison, Jackson and five other men were dead.

Guards shot Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers," saying he was trying to escape over a wall. In and near Jackson's cell were found the bodies of three guards and two inmates. Six convicts face murder charges in these deaths.

Bingham is accused as an accomplice and is charged with five counts of murder.

When the young attorney's picture was on page one of newspapers across the nation, Bales said, dozens of people telephoned with possible leads.

"With all this publicity, if he were around . . . there was a good likelihood of finding him then," says Bales.

"The longer he stays away without words to his friends or family, the more this (Bingham's death) is a possibility," he said.

Bingham has been reported seen riding in a car through mountainous camp areas at Yosemite National Park, in a private plane near Portland, Ore., at New York's Kennedy airport, in Chicago and dozens of other places, Bales said.

Nothing. And now Bales says the calls don't come any more.

Bingham's father feared at the outset his son was a victim of foul play or "held by those who do not want him to be free."

"There is no reason to judge he is guilty because he has not come forward," says the father.

His son was last seen leaving a Berkeley Hills commune about 6 p.m., the night of the killings.

Simple Granite Tombstone At Grave of Maurice Chevalier

MARNES-LA-COQUETTE, France (UPI)—A simple granite tombstone stood at a newly dug grave today in the tiny village cemetery surrounded by barren winter woods.

"Maurice Chevalier, born Aug. 12, 1888, died Jan. 1, 1972," were its only markings, in French.

In planning today's funeral services Chevalier's family purposely avoided the pomp and ceremony some might expect in mourning the death of France's most famous entertainer of the century.

Mass was being held for Chevalier by the village priest, Abbe Louis le Tiran, in the Sante Eugenie Church where scientist Louis Pasteur's funeral mass was held in 1895.

Although only Chevalier's family and some 20 of his closest friends were allowed into the church, a public address system was set up in the town square so that other mourners could hear the mass.

The French government will be represented at the funeral by Jacques Duhamel, minister for culture. Princess Grace of Monaco also said she would attend.

Children from the village school were acting as pallbearers in transporting Chevalier's body, enclosed in an austere walnut coffin, the few steps from the church into the cemetery.

For his final resting place beside the grave of his mother, Chevalier was dressed in the gay showman's clothes he wore in life, a funeral official said.

On Chevalier's silvery hair was one of the pale straw hats that the star tilted rougishly over one eye to charm millions in his one-man stage reviews, television appearances, and films for more than 60 of the 83 years of his life.

He also wore a black tuxedo, black bow tie, and the tiny rosette of French Legion of Honor in his buttonhole.

Chevalier's will stated that he wanted a "discreet, simple" funeral service.

Lead Is Reported In Hotel Heist

NEW YORK (AP) — Discovery of a single clear fingerprint and the recovery of $7,000 in stolen securities have given detectives their first important leads in the invesitgation of the multi-million dollar Hotel Pierre heist.

"We're encouraged," said Deputy Chief Inspector Chalres T. J. Meyer, after investigators turned up the fingerprint in an undisclosed location.

The recovered securities were taken during the Christmas Day stickup of the Drake Hotel, which police say bore a marked resemblance to the Sunday holdup by a four-man limousine gang at the fashionable Pierre.

Police said the $7,000 worth of negotiable stocks and bonds and miscellaneous papers, including a will, had apparently been discarded by the gang. They did not say where they recovered the securities.

Meanwhile police continued a person-by-person survey of the Pierre victims in an effort to fix the size of the haul. Only about a third of the 47 residents whose safe deposit boxes were pried open had been contacted as of Tuesday. Many were away for the winter.

"We don't know if people lost $15 or $15 million," said John H. Sherry, a lawyer for the hotel. "There are some fantastic figures going around, and we have no idea what the total will be."

Deputy Commissioner Robert Daley, who called the heist "an absolutely brilliant robbery," said unofficial estimates of between $2 million and $4 million

Former Aide To Sen. Fong Is Sentenced

NEW YORK (UPI) —Robert T. Carson, former administrative aide to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, was sentenced Tuesday to 18 months in jail and fined $5,000.

Carson, 65, had been convicted by a federal court Nov. 20 of conspiracy to misuse Fong's office, perjury and bribery in an alleged scheme to quash several stock-fraud indictments.

He was free on bail today pending appeal.

Joseph Brill, Carson's attorney, asked U.S. District Judge Marvin E. Frankel for clemency, saying Carson had been "a victim of calculating people who led him down the garden path."

When the tall, distinguished-looking Carson started to speak on his own behalf, he broke down. Frankel granted a brief recess. On his return, Carson, his voice breaking, said, "I cannot frankly have anything to add to what my wife and my associates for the last four decades have said in my behalf.

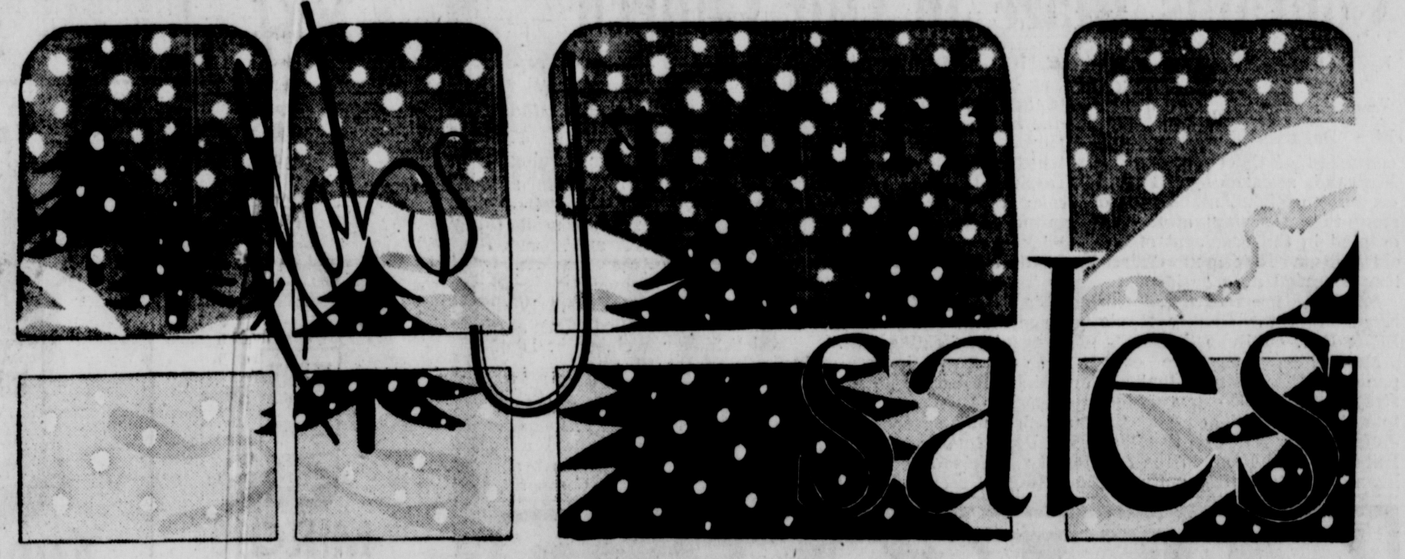

"I make a plea for your honor's mercy," he said.

About 70 persons, including four senators, had written to ask for clemency for Carson.

Bell on State Budget . . . 'Poor Patchup Job'

By JON POWERS

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) today maintained his stand that "Rockefeller's tax and spend program . . . is a poor patchup job based on fiscal gimmickry" following the state Legislature's approval of the Governor's compromise tax package.

A stalwart among the opposition that thwarted Rockefeller's attempts to pass his fiscal plan during six days of a special session of the Legislature, Bell refused to go along with the majority in Tuesday's vote.

On the other hand, Bell's counterpart in the State Senate, Jay P. Rolison (R-Dutchess, Ulster) voted in favor of all issues in the Governor's tax plan.

Bell voted against the two-and-a-half per cent income tax surcharge, as well as against additional taxes on cigarettes, liquor and gifts. The Woodstock Assemblyman also cast a negative vote against the transfer of money from the Triboro Bridge Authority to the Metropolitan Transportation Authority and the New York City subway fare from rising more than five cents.

Bell voted in favor of the "rollover" issue which delays state aid to schools and guarantees that the state will pay interest on money borrowed as a result. He also favored the proposed "Five Year Plan" which requires the governor to submit five-year budgets to the Legislature each year.

In a joint statement issued today with Assemblyman Emeel S. Betros (R-Poughkeepsie), who also voted against the budget, Bell continued to express his dissatisfaction with the results of the Legislature's special session.

"Budget reform, meaningful long-term economic planning . . . retrenchment of low priority programs and fat-in-government were items which never made a significant appearance before two extraordinary sessions of the State Legislature," said Bell and Betros. "What emerged was a hasty patch-up job which avoided the real issue: sound fiscal planning and implementation. What further emerged: more taxes and business as usual."

Stating that they do not "subscribe to such fiscal gimmickry similar to the concept of the Transportation Bond Issue," Bell and Betros added, "A fair and sound solution to the state's problems simply cannot be resolved in one week. Time, public debate and thoughtful consideration are necessary."

They added, "New York State has not been in such a fiscal collapse since the depths of the depression."

Fiscal Plan Based on Hopes and Promises

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The fiscal plan approved by the legislature Tuesday night was based on hopes and promises — many of them.

For example, Democrats were assured by Gov. Rockefeller that no further reductions would be made in such programs as mental hygiene, narcotics treatment, and college aid for the disadvantaged in the next fiscal year.

The Democratic leadership, Minority Leaders Stanley Steingut of the Assembly and Joseph Zaretzki of the Senate, extracted the pledge in exchange for Democratic support of the fiscal plan. This was one of the last problems to be resolved before the plan was finally presented to a vote.

Steingut originally had held out for a letter of intent signed by Rockefeller and the legislature's Republican leaders, Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, but settled for the pledges made by Rockefeller in a news release after the special legislative session adjourned.

Meanwhile, seven Republican senators from upstate areas claimed they had received assurances from Rockefeller that efforts will be continued to reduce the cost of operations of state departments and agencies.

Since he gave those assurances, they voted for the tax increases, the senators said in a press release. The release was signed by H. Douglas Barclay of Pulaski, Theodore D. Doyle of Interlaken, Douglas Hudson of Johnstown, Jay P. Rolison of Poughkeepsie, Ronald B. Stafford of Peru and William T. Smith of Big Flats. Little was heard from them in debate on the bills.

Then there is the hope that the federal government would provide a $400 million increase in federal aid over the next 15 months. This was an integral part of Rockefeller's plan to meet a budget gap he estimates at $1.5-billion over the rest of the current fiscal year and all of the next.

The revenue projections also appear to contain an element of hope. Rockefeller asked for a three-cent increase in the tax on a pack of cigarttes year an estimated that it would yield $40 million over 12 months.

The legislature turned him down at that time but approved the increase in the special legislative session. This time, Rockefeller says the three-cent increase will yield $62 million over 14 months, beginning Feb. 1.

Two other tax increases sought by Rockefeller last year and spurned by the legislature were a penny increase in the gasoline tax and a dime boost in the tax on a fifth of liquor. In the special legislative session, the lawmakers approved the penny boost in the gasoline tax and a 20-cent boost in the tax on a fifth of liquor.

Last year, Rockefeller said the additional gasoline tax would yield $41 million over 12 months. This year, the estimate is $61 million over 14 months, beinning Feb. 1.

Last year, he estimated the dime increase in the liquor tax per fifth would yield $15 million over 12 months. This year, the estimate of the 20-cent increase per fifth was $45 million over 14 months, beginning Feb. 1.

Details of the Compromise Taxing Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Here are the details of the compromise taxing plan passed Tuesday by the New York State legislature:

—A 2½ per cent surcharge on the state income tax on incomes over $5,000 for a married couple and $2,500 for the single taxpayer. This would be imposed for five years, beginning with 1972 incomes. A yield of $75 million was anticipated.

—An elimination of the state income-tax credits of $12.50 for the single taxpayer and $25 for the family, beginning with 1972 incomes. A yield of $90 million.

—An increase in the taxable portion of the long-term capital gains from 50 per cent to 60 per cent, beginning with 1972 income. A yield of $30 million.

—A doubling of the minimum income tax rate, from 3 per cent to 6 per cent, and a decrease from $20,000 to $5,000 in the exclusion of the minimum tax on those having an otherwise tax-exempt income. This would begin with 1972 income. A yield of $5 million.

—An elimination of the depletion allowance, as applied to individuals, on mines, oil and gas wells and other natural deposits, beginning with 1972 income. A yield of $1 million.

—An increase of 20 cents in the tax on a fifth of liquor to 65 cents, beginning Feb. 1. A yield of $45 million.

A three-cent boost in the tax on cigarettes to 15 cents a pack, beginning Feb. 1. A yield of $2.5 million.

—A new state gift tax ranging from 1.5 per cent on gifts under $50,000 to 16 per cent on gifts of more than $10,000, beginning Jan. 1. A yield of $6 million.

—An elimination of the distributors' discount on the motor fuel tax, beginning Feb. 1. A yield of $2.5 million.

—A new tax bracket of 15 per cent on gross incomes of more than $25,000 a year, instead of 14 per cent, beginning with 1972 income. A yield of $30 million.

In addition, the plan expects to realize another $13 million through stricter enforcement of tax collections.

Quick Work by Firefighters Contains Blaze in Old Church

By WALTER S. CLARK

TILLSON — Firefighters from the Tillson Fire Department units under command of Chief Clifton Van Nostrand, assisted by a tanker crew from Rifton, made a good stop this morning after fire erupted in the basement of the old Tillson Reformed Church now occupied as a residence.

Another fire occurred in Kingston at the Quality Maple Block Inc., on Deyo Street.

Meanwhile, three fire companies battled flames that destroyed a 45,000-square-foot four-story poultry house at the Jaffe Poultry Farm on the Rock Hill-Glen Wild Road in the Sullivan County community of Rock Hill. Officials said 18,000 laying hens and several tons of feed and equipment were lost in the blaze.

Tillson fire units were dispatched at about 4:30 a.m. and on arrival firefighters saw fire burning through an outer wall near the chimney.

Quick work of the local units assisted by a Rifton tanker crew knocked down the flames and confined most of the fire damage to the basement and a wall near the heating unit.

The structure is presently owned by Robert Gannon as a residence.

Six fire units of the Kingston Fire Department in charge of Deputy Chiefs Robert Maines and Hugh Greer responded to an alarm at 3:59 p.m. Tuesday after fire was reported at the Quality Maple Block building on Deyo Street.

Firemen found fire burning in a sawdust bin in the furnace room. A 1½-inch pump stream from Engine 1 was used to quell the blaze, and firemen hauled over the smoldering sawdust and removed it from the building. The property is owned by Certified Corp., of which Sidney Weinberger is office manager.

Fire records listed the probable cause as a spark from a cleaning machine. Responding to the call with Engine 1 were Trucks 1 and 2, Engines 2 and 4 and Wicks Salvage Company.

State's Chief Justice Warns on Trial Rules

NEW YORK (AP) — The state's highest judge has warned that continued fiscal foot-dragging by local governments may lead to a critical situation next May when the state courts implement new speedy trial rules for criminal cases.

But Chief Judge Stanley H. Fuld of the Court of Appeals said Tuesday he intends to [illegible] the new rules into effect May 1 as scheduled even if that requires shutting down the state's civil courts and eliminating judges' vacations.

Fuld, joined at an unprecedented news conference by four justices of the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court, said at least $14 million was needed for extra court personnel and facilities to make the new regulations work properly.

The new rules would require that any person arrested on other than homicide charges be released on bail or in his own recognizance if he is not brought to trial within 90 days after arrest. If, through no fault of the defendant's, no trial were begun within six months, the charges would be dismissed.

The five judges, who together comprise the Administrative Board of the state's Judicial Conference, criticized what they called "the lack of overall, significant progress" in getting adequate financial commitments from local governments.

Fuld said the only localities which have already appropriated adequate funds for the new program were Nassau County, allocating $1 million, and Suffolk County, $1.3 million.

He said other amounts that still must be provided for implementation of the new trial rules were: New York County, $1.7 million; the Bronx, $1.5 million; Brooklyn, $2.9 million; Queens, $600,000; Richmond, $400,000; and other counties combined, $4.6 million.

"The courts are the prop of our democratic system and the money must be found, even at the sacrifice of other services," Fuld said.

The chief judge said he hoped the new regulations would be a "deterrent to crime, assure to all defendants in criminal cases equal treatment under law and, hopefully, prevent or, at least, minimize the possibility of a recurrence of prison riots by defendants awaiting trial."

Five New York City jails in 1970 were rocked by disturbances sparked in part by prisoner complaints over lengthy trial delays and stringent bail requirements.

The new regulations, first announced last April 30, have drawn sharp criticism from prosecutors. Bronx Dist. Atty. Burton B. Roberts has said that unless the court system is drastically upgraded, the new rules could result in a "legalized jail-break" for defendants not brought to trial within six months.

The State Association of District Attorneys, headed by Roberts, has announced that it will urge the Legislature to modify the speedy trial rules during the upcoming session.

Appellate Division presiding justices who attended the news conference with Fuld were Harold A. Stevens of the first department; Samuel Rabin, second department; J. Clarence Herlihy, third department. Associate Justice Dominick L. Gabrielli of the fourth department sat in for the presiding judge, Harry D. Goldman, who was ill.

One-Fourth of Mankind (4. "First Universal Emperor")

by Don Oakley and John Lane

He has regulated and made equal the laws . . . he has quelled the battles . . . the Sovereign Emperor has pacified in turn the four ends of the earth.

—Inscribed of Shih Huang-ti

After centuries of increasingly bloody wars among the Chinese states, one power arose to fight the world's first "war to end war."

By 221 B.C., the state of Ch'in had conquered all the others. For the first time, all Chinese were united in one nation. It was from the Ch'in dynasty that the West derived the name China.

Proclaiming himself Shih Huang-ti—"First Universal Emperor"—the king of Ch'in set about to establish an empire to last "10,000 generations." Weights and measures and writing were standardized. Feudalism was crushed and all opposition, both political and philosophical, was ruthlessly suppressed. Scholars were slaughtered and, in an attempt to wipe out all past history, libraries and books were destroyed.

From time immemorial, China had been subjected to repeated invasions by the "Hsiung-nu"—barbarians from the steppes of Asia. To end this menace once and for all, Shih Huang-ti ordained the building of the Great Wall.

Incorporating parts of existing walls, this colossal barrier, stretching for more than 2,000 miles across mountain and desert, was completed in the amazingly short time of 12 years. According to historian Leonard Cottrell, probably over a million men and women slaved and died on the wall, and were sometimes buried inside it:

"If built in Europe . . . the wall would enclose large parts of France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and a segment of Russia. In the United States, it would completely surround the combined area of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico . . . and according to astronomers it would be visible from the moon, with the naked eye."

Shih Huang-ti's second lasting accomplishment was to divide China into provinces to be governed by a centralized bureaucracy. He also extended Chinese dominion to the south as far as the Red River in modern North Vietnam.

The "10,000 generations" of Ch'in, however, were to endure but 15 years. Shih Huang-ti died in 210 B.C. Intrigue at court and smoldering resentment among the people soon erupted into rebellion. In 207, the second Ch'in emperor was murdered and the capital city burned.

But China had been united for all time, and out of this brief period of turmoil, a peasant guerrilla leader was to raise himself to the rank of emperor and establish one of the most glorious dynasties in China's history.

Housing for the Poor

The Nixon administration will outdo any previous regime in its aid for housing, when the Department of Housing and Urban Development soon begins a nationwide test of housing allowances—for the first time giving to the poor funds to pay rent or buy homes. Heretofore, except for a small rent subsidy program, the emphasis has been on buildings. Now money will be provided directly to the needy householder.

Even when rent subsidies were provided, the money went directly to the landlord. The new experiment pays it to the renter or buyer and he makes his best terms. HUD officials believe the money can result in a radical redirection of billions of dollars now being spent on public housing and payments to builders and landlords. They hope it will produce up to twice as much housing for the same cost.

The housing allowance experiment was called for by Congress in the Housing Act of 1970. It will cost $10 million a year for at least three years. With variations, it will be carried out in six metropolitan areas with 1,000 families in each area participating. The areas are yet to be announced.

These are the conditions: Participating families must be in need of decent housing. And they must pay a reasonable percentage of their earnings for it. The allowance will make up the difference.

Needy families will seek their own housing on the open market instead of as now, be limited to public housing. They will be given money, or housing vouchers analagous to food stamps good for housing only, or a combination of both.

Buying a house, the buyer will make the best deal he can, mindful of the allowance he will get to complete his down payment and his monthly mortgage payments over and above the money he can pay out of his earnings. Renters will know what they can pay out of income, plus the allowance they get. In this way, their money will be multiplied and the allowance will buy much more than they can without it.

The plan starts this spring. It shields the government from attacks for promoting dispersal and segregated housing, eliminate the stigma for the poor and use existing housing more efficiently.

Plaudit for Packard

There are not many men who would pay $8 million a year for the privilege of working for the federal government. That, in effect, is what David Packard did when he accepted the position of deputy defense secretary nearly three years ago.

Packard, a wealthy industrialist, disassociated himself from his industry connections when he accepted the $42,500 a year post. That act is estimated to have cost him $26 million during his term of office.

Now that he has resigned his defense position, it is not his personal sacrifice for which Packard will be remembered. He, more than any other man, made giant strides in working to eliminate wasteful Pentagon procurement procedures such as were involved in the F111 and C5A controversies.

In the process Packard stepped on some highly placed toes in industry and government. He was still doing it in a press conference held the day after his resignation became effective.

"There is no question we would be able to make savings if we could take actions without constraint," he said. "I would say we might be able to save at least a billion dollars a year.

"We have a great many political constraints, as everyone knows, on what we can do with any base in any area."

Defense Secretary Laird, at the same conference, said the changeover from a wartime to a peacetime economy already had cost the nation 2.7 million military and defense industry jobs. At least part of that record is attributable to efficiencies instituted by Packard.

Each retrenchment, each base closing and many defense budget reductions are fought tenaciously by those exercising political constraint. To say that the defense budget was a rich plum to pick could be the understatement of the year.

If that situation has changed for the better, and the performance of the last several years indicates it has, David Packard deserves much of the credit. It was typical of the man that even after leaving his post he publicly expressed dissatisfaction at not having been able to do more.

Banking Practices and Congress

WASHINGTON — More than 100 Congressmen — that's almost one out of every four — collect payments, law fees or dividends from the financial institutions whose returns are affected by congressional action.

One payoff pattern that has gone unnoticed is the strange concentration of interest-free federal deposits in banks affiliated with Congressmen.

Here's how the merry-go-round works:

Congressmen vote appropriations for federal agencies. The agencies deposit the money, interest free, in commercial banks. A disproportionate amount of this federal greenery winds up in banks that have Congressmen as stockholders, officers, directors or attorneys.

Then the banks loan the money to the public at the highest interest the market will bear. Thus, the taxpayers' money is kept circulating in dizzy circles, with the taxpayers often borrowing their own money back at high rates.

If all this sounds complicated, those who pocket money at each turn of the circle would like to keep it that way. But the taxpayers would be wise to take the time to understand what happens to their money.

Congressmen could rid themselves of their banking conflicts, of course, simply by applying the same rules to themselves that they impose upon other federal officials.

A few Congressmen voluntarily do this. Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., for example, sold his 267 shares of Heights State Bank stock when he was appointed to the House Banking Committee.

Secret Holdings

But all too many Congressmen keep their banking ties. The fourth-ranking Democrat on the House Banking Committee, for example, is Wisconsin's respected Rep. Henry Reuss. He has earned a reputation as a crusader for public causes.

Yet he not only has retained his banking interests but has failed to report all his bank-related holdings, as required by the new House code of ethics.

He owns a $150,000 interest in the Marshall and Isley Bank Stock Corporation, a holding company which controls 14 banks. His public report to the House, however, mentions only "Marshall and Isley Bank, Milwaukee, Wis., common stock."

Not mentioned is the size of his investment and the fact that he has an interest not only in Marshall and Isley Bank but in 13 others as well.

Reuss also neglected to include in his public report that he has "extensive holdings" in Niagara Shares Corporation and other huge investment trusts. These trusts, like the Reuss banks, are affected by the legislation that comes before him on the Banking Committee.

The flow of interest-free deposits into Marshall and Isley Bank, meanwhile, has increased as Reuss has risen in seniority on the Banking Committee.

Back in 1964, before Reuss reached his present power over banking legislation, Marshall and Isley Bank had no authorizations for most interest-free deposits. But as Reuss's influence grew on the Banking Committee, so did the interest-free deposits in Reuss's banks.

By June 30, 1968, the authorizations had climbed to $2,167,000. By last June 30, they had reached $3,767,000. For a period in 1971, Marshall and Isley had the largest single federal time deposit in Wisconsin.

Other Deposits

The bank's "tax and loan" accounts also increased from $1,029,433 in 1969 to $10,190,922 in mid-1971. This is tax withholding money, which employers deposit in the banks of their own choice. It also includes proceeds from federal securities purchases.

Reuss, to his credit, has urged that these funds be redistributed by the Treasury to small banks and minority-owned banks.

My associate Les Whitten and our consultant, former mortgage banker Martin Price, spoke at length with Reuss about the interest-free deposits in his banks.

"This is the first I've heard of it," he snorted. "I can't imagine Treasury trying to propitiate me. If they were doing this sort of thing to butter me up, then they obviously would have informed me."

At the Treasury, Fiscal Assistant Secretary John Carlock also denied that the government had political motives in selecting banks for federal deposits. Many deposits, he said, are compensation for banking services it remains a fact that only 9 per cent of the nation's 14,000 eligible banks have received the coveted, interest-free deposits. For Congressmen's banks, however, the figures soar to about 20 per cent.

FOOTNOTE: In a future column, we will name other Congressmen whose banks have profited from interest free deposits.

Economic Forecast

WASHINGTON — Many forecasts have been made by different economic experts about the year 1972. They are all cautious but hopeful. The truth is that they are not sure of the extent to which the Presidential election is going to restrain President Nixon in his application of controls that are very much needed if restrictions are to be applied to move the economy forward.

Thus, one of the foremost economic institutions — namely, the Conference Board — recently held its twenty-fifth annual economic forum. A summary of its members' forecasts is provided by Martin R. Gainsbrugh, who is chief economist and chairman of the board, in which he refers to Phase I and Phase II policies as having afforded a "breathing spell" for the economy, but he adds:

"They've surpressed pressures rather than removed or relieved them. We should be moving steadily toward restructuring the weak spots in the market system and in collective bargaining while we still have the saving grace of effective controls working for us. . . .

"If the economy is to continue to operate effectively in the years ahead, drastic change is required in the structure and the mechanism of the free market, as well as of collective bargaining and our welfare programs, among others. Overreliance upon controls can militate against our moving ahead with the necessary structural changes sorely needed."

Inflation should ebb significantly, according to the ten prominent economists who comprised the forum, and they look for business to become better in the new year to the extent of a slight decline in unemployment.

The figures on the unemployment decline do not indicate any sharp increase in business operations but merely a steady improvement of the American system and its operations. It would appear from the statistics that it will take more than the year 1972 to bring about a real change to what is known as a period of prosperity.

While the percentages of gain are not high, they are regarded as significant and indicate a gradual change for the better.

Underlying it all, however is a feeling of uncertainty about the slowness of the controls process. Undoubtedly the factor which is resisting change is the fight by union labor against restraints which, if they were really applied, could make a difference in industrial production and the unemployment situation.

How this is to be attained, nobody ventures to say. The conference board is not entangled in politics and does not criticize the acts of individual agencies. But it is evident that the net results in the wage and price field would have been better if there had been more cooperation between management and labor.

The main fact to be borne in mind is that the creation of jobs is a key to the diminution of the unemployment figure and that, if employment rises by less than 1 per cent, it certainly is a slow rate of growth. This would not be healthy progress.

President Nixon during the election year will probably take no decisive action with respect to wage and price controls. But once the election is over, it may be anticipated that Congress will be asked to grant more power to enable the government to increase the number of jobs in America by requiring the cooperation of labor and management in the opportunities for negotiating useful job-creating contracts.

The story then, in review, is that progress has been made and the curve is upward. But 1972 isn't going to be a boom year and the American people are going to feel the effects of the so-called turn primarily in a negative sense — things will not get worse and, indeed, in some respects they will be better. But for many people there will still be unemployment. Also, for some people there will be welfare problems that will still be unsolved and will remain unsolved.

The government has plenty of tasks to perform in relations with the states, and there is need for tax revenues to be shared with the states. But until the November 1972 election is out of the way, there is little likelihood of the cooperation that certainly will ensue once the Presidential contest is out of the way.

An Introduction That Is Unique

Rarely do I read the introduction of a book, or cultivate an author. Both are abrasive and, in many ways, false. Most prefaces consist of apologies by the author explaining the disasters he encountered while trying to write.

I recall two introductions which held my interest. One was by a writer named Tiffany Thayer who opened something called "Thirteen Men" by writing: "This is the damndest book you've ever read. Not the best nor the worst, mind you, but the damndest . . ."

Away back in the mid-Thirties, a columnist named Mark Hellinger tossed a bunch of yellowed short stories at a publisher who put the yarns between covers and called it "Ten Million." Short stories do not sell well, and "Ten Million" was no exception. However, the author came perilously close to the truth when he rapped out his little introduction:

"Mr. Hellinger, as I always refer to myself in public, hereby offers his thanks to the following:

"To the New York Daily Mirror and King Features Syndicate, for permitting him to republish much of the material contained in this book. To O. Henry and Guy de Maupassant — for the same reason.

"To his wife, for permitting him to work, and for going out to the movies three times a week alone, he hopes. To the Bing and Bing Construction Company, for not building anything near my apartment for the past six months.

"To the Underwood Typewriter Company — for inventing machines which can be operated with one finger. To the James Hennessy Company, for continuing to turn out cognac almost as it was during Prohibition.

"To Saks & Company, for devising underwear that does not bind in the presence of a typewriter. To all motion picture companies, for not disturbing the author with fabulous offers while the book was being written.

"To my local pharmacy for supplying aspirin, cigarettes, Bromo-Seltzer and Dr. Hinkle's Pink Pills for Pale People at 10 per cent off the list price. To the lady upstairs for agree to stop the daily tap dancing lessons promptly at four a.m. . . ."

Sometimes later, after the book had died of malnutrition at the age of three weeks, Mr. H. went to Hollywood and became what is loosely called a producer. The duties of a producer are to sit on the bankroll which the studio gives him after borrowing it from the Bank of America. He doles it to the director, who is expected to convert it into 5,000 feet of epic film. If the picture is a bust, the producers converts the film into 7,800,000 mandolin picks and sells them on street corners.

Mr. Hellinger found out that producers are special people. Movie stars and directors eat in the studio commissary, but producers eat in a private dining room because no one wants to eat with them. Mr. H. was at Twentieth'Century Fox, pouring Russian dressing over his lettuce and sliced tomatoes, when Darryl Zanuck, the man who thinks like a polo mallet began a lecture on the importance of authors.

"If you don't have a good story to start with," he said in effect, "you won't have it anywhere else along the line." This was pretty heady stuff for the producers, except for Mr. H., who raised his hand and proclaimed modestly tht he was an author. "Oh, Mark," Zanuck said peevishly, "we all like you but you're not an author. You used to write a column — remember?"

Hellinger insisted that he had written a book. Zanuck refuse to believe it. Hellinger hurried home to Gladys Glad, the lady Ziegfeld called "the most beautiful in the world" and asked her to dig up a copy of "Ten Million." She, of course, was Mrs. Hellinger.

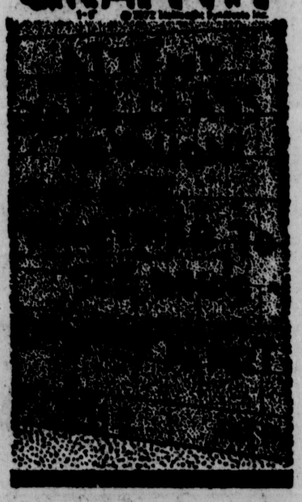

"I think we either burned them or threw them out when we left New York," she said. Such dialogue has never been known to raise an author's morale. Mark and his chauffeur made the rounds of the Hollywood book shops, but no one had ever heard of the book.

He and his chauffeur combed every book shop in Beverly Hills on to Santa Monica without finding a copy. It became increasingly important to prove to Zanuck that Mark was a bona fide author. Three weeks and 70 book shops later, the producer walked into a dusty place in downtown Los Angeles and there, on a shelf with hundreds of other tomes, he saw his baby.

"I'll buy that copy of 'Ten Million,'" he said, pointing. The clerk took it down from the shelf and wrapped it. "That will be 25 dollars," he said. The producer was outraged. "25 bucks?" he howled. "When it was new it cost $2.50."

"I know," the clerk said, smiling forgivingly, "but this copy is autographed." . . .

Tax Protest

Editor, The Freeman:

We, the members of the Steuben Society of America, Johann C. Weiser Unit No. 50, Kingston, N.Y. go on record to oppose the continued rise of taxes in the State, County and Townships of the State.

It is fairly evident that very few legislators in power today, give any consideration to the people of low incomes, to the people on Social security, to the people on fixed pensions, in short to the people least able to pay.

It takes people of stature to recognize these facts and act accordingly.

Return Money

Editor, The Freeman:

I am a senior citizen and I do not have any transportation unless I take a cab to do my shopping. On November 15 a high school boy came to my home selling Christmas cards and occasional cards. The cards were $2.95 a box. I ordered two boxes of cards; one box of Christmas cards. He said that he had to have the money in advance. I paid him $5.90. He never came back. I had no cards to send out for Christmas.

Now $5.90 may not sound a lot to some people but to someone on social security, it's a lot and it is very embarrasing not to be able to send a card to friends at this time of the year.

I do not know who this boy is or where he lives. He has my name and address and if he was an honest boy he could have returned my money if he did not get enough orders to send to the company. Would you ask in your paper if he would return my money. I would appreciate it very much, and thank you very much. I have reported this to the police but they have nothing to go on, but this boy's parents must have known he was selling these cards. This boy was here once before and I bought from him but I paid him when he brought the order to me, that is why I trusted him this time. If he is starting to be a con man, he should be stopped right now.

I thought if he got a scare through your paper, it might help. Thank you for taking the time to read this.

I remain respectfully yours,
MRS. ESTELLE FRANCIS

Socialist View

Editor, The Freeman:

Robert Yoakum is to be complimented for using in his column of Dec. 26 in the Sunday Freeman the stupid statement by the publisher of the deceased magazine, "LOOK," who as one who believed in the profit motive couldn't even keep the magazine going.

In his Nov. 12 news conference, President Nixon said: "1968, for exampl., was a very bad time to buy (stocks), and yet it appeared to be like the best of times. Stocks were high. Unemployment was low. Everybody though, we had high prosperity, but prosperity was based on 300 American casualties a week, 500,000 Americans in Vietnam, 25 to 30 billion dollars being spent on war in Vietnam and on a burgeoning rate of inflation."

This statement by the President confirms the charges the Socialist Labor Party has long been making against capitalism.

Is such a system worth retaining?

HECK NO!

Why conservatives feel Nixon has let them down is beyond me as he is doing everything he can to keep the old dying order of capitalism alive.

Saugerties Center

Editor, The Freeman:

I attended a meeting discussing the possibility of closing the Saugerties Youth Center, as a result of the unfortunate occurrences on Friday night, a week ago. I feel such a move would be a disaster for the many young people who were not involved in this occurence. After all, these actions could have taken place in any public building, school, store, or anywhere at all in the town of Saugerties. It is impossible to watch every move when you have a large group of young people coming and going and playing and working together.

Tom Keefe has done a wonderful job working with all the young people who go to the Center — channeling their energy and interests into constructive activities and giving freely of his own time and sincere concern for all those who come to the Center. He is helping in many ways to catch problems as they emerge in our youth, before they become set ways of life ending in long term problems for society as a whole.

The Youth Center in many respects becomes like a family to many of our young people and even in a family situation, where the parents are sincerely trying to raise and guide their children, there can be some members of that family who will go the wrong way. Is that any reason to destroy the whole family and the potential for good that exists within its structure?

Times have changed, even in the last few years — many of our young people want to go to work but there are just no jobs available. This is a constant cry we hear, "Do you know where I can get a job?" With the job situation what it is and time on their hands, the youth of Saugerties have been fortunate to have some place to go besides hanging on the streets or getting involved in other undesirable activities.

With very little money on which to operate and innovate programs to interest our youth, the Center has slowly but steadily moved ahead and has the loyalty and support of many of our young people and outstanding members of the community. I think it would be a great loss to the youth, and to the town itself, to close the Center. This is not the solution. All the good that has been achieved will simply be thrown away at a loss to all of us. A few bad apples do not spoil the whole barrel, and saying to all these young people that we do not trust them is only widening the gap that exists and has had a very fragile but potential chance of at least coming together to the benefit of all of us.

There are times in life to play it cool and "back off" in the face of danger; there are also times when a person's convictions are so strong that they have to stand up and be counted. I, for one, stand up to be counted now. I am for the Saugerties Youth Center and for the young people who are so much a part of it.

Paltz Pool Vote

Editor, The Freeman:

There have been many misleading rumors and statements circulating about the proposed "swim" park which comes up for vote on January 11th. We shall attempt to clarify this issue with the following facts.

In May, 1970, the Town Board was presented with a petition containing approximately 1,000 signatures. It requested the Board to develop swimming facilities for the entire New Paltz community.

The Town Board responded to that petition and obtained a contribution of 25 acres of land adjacent to and behind the Duzine School with direct access off Sunset Ridge. The Town Board then held a public information meeting and invited comments from the public. Based upon the response to that meeting, an architectural firm was engaged to design a swim and recreational facility and the Federal and State governments were asked for assistance funds. In the fall of 1970, the Town Board held a public hearing to present the progress to that date and again invited participation and comments from the public. The response was favorable and the Town Board proceeded with the final plans and design of the complete facility. During this time, continued meetings were being held with the State and Federal representatives to secure their contributing funds to lighten the tax burden on the residents of New Paltz. The Town received formal notice of the State-Federal grant in the amount of $235,950.00 in October, 1971.

However, the Town Board was working with a time limit on the acceptance of these funds. The State-Federal agencies required the Town Board to pass a resolution accepting the grant by November 15th and allow for a possible referendum by December 15th. Because of these time requirements and the already received 1,000 names on the petition of request, the Town Board passed a resolution to approve the park and accept the grant and place the park up for a permissive referendum. By taking this action, the Town Board was able to secure for the Town of New Paltz the State-Federal grant. At the public hearing on November 15th, the Town Board explained how a referendum could be held through petition.

At no time has the Town Board ever opposed a public vote on this question. As a matter of fact, we have always encouraged public participation. A petition was submitted on December 8th and a voting date of January 11th has been set. (Town Law requires a vote to be held within 40 days of receipt of a petition). A public referendum is one of the healthiest expressions of public opinion and the Town Board welcomes and, is pleased to see this kind of community response. We further encourage everyone to express himself through his vote. Since we embarked upon this project as a result of community request, it is fitting that it be finally decided by community response.

The park plan contains much besides a "swim" pool. It contains a bath house, filter equipment, road, parking lots, water and sewerage systems, lights for nighttime use, deep diving area in the pool itself, six A.A.U. Regulation racing lanes, and a large water play area for all age groups, picnic areas, playground areas, and winter time ice skating. Future development will include Bocci courts and two ball fields to be developed with funds acquired from sources other than this Bond issue and direct taxation: eg. — Zoning law requirements of subdividers). There is more than adequate land for many varied recreational activities. This park is also adjacent to the Duzine School and shares a common boundary. It will be made available for use by the school throughout the year for recreational purposes.

The Town Board realizes that this is a difficult time to ask taxpayers for additional funds for any purpose regardless of the community benefit. However, the Federal grant is available now, and it must be used in 1972. It is for this project only and it is this development plan that has been approved by the State and Federal governments.

The cost per resident is as follows. First: there will be a maximum family fee on the pool of $10.00 per year regardless of the number in the family. Special consideration can be given to senior citizens and any person unable to pay. Second: the tax rate has been determined to be between $3.00 and $5.00 per thousand of assessed valuation (depending on how many people use the pool on a fee basis). This is a TOTAL cost for BOTH the payment of the Bond AND the operation and maintenance of the Park with ALL items accounted for. This cost will go down each year as the Tax base and park use go up and as more subdividers contribute to the Town recreation fund under the requirements of our Zoning Laws.

The Town Board has completed its charged responsibility by acquiring the 25 acres of land at no cost and obtaining the State-Federal grant for 50 per cent of the funding. We have also provided the design and engineering plans for this park facility. Only you, the people of New Paltz, can make the decision to commit our share of the funding up to but NOT to exceed $240,000.00 on a 20 year Bond Issue.

We have presented you with the factual information above. Each of you will have to make your own decision. Please make it on the facts.

With this Bond issue vote, you must decide whether to accept the 50 per cent funding of the State-Federal grant or return it to be given to some other community. You must decide whether to commit the New Paltz share to the project as an investment in the future of our community and provide the core facilities for a public recreation area.

The Town Board has made its decision and publically stated that it is in favor of this project. On January 11th, you will make yours. We have every confidence you will arrive at that decision honestly and sincerely.

Yours truly,
ANTHONY MORIELLO

TOWN OF ULSTER

David Holly, 28, of 82 Spring Lake Trailer Park, one of eight local persons arrested in a gambling raid Aug. 26 which stretched up and down the Hudson Valley, appeared before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly recently.

Holly was charged with two counts of promoting gambling second degree, and pleaded guilty to both charges. He paid a fine of $250 on one charge, and was given a conditional discharge with probation for a period of two years on the other.

Also appearing before Reilly were David Teague, 25, of 19 Minturn Street, Port Ewen, and James Clark, 25, of P.O. Box 382, Port Ewen.

Teague was charged with issuing a bad check to Shop-Rite for $100 Dec. 29. He was arraigned, entered a guilty plea, and made full restituton for the check. He was fined $25.

Clark was arrested by State Police Investigator Wayne Beyea Dec. 29, and charged with burglary third degree. It is alleged Clark broke into a Woodstock home Dec. 24. Clark was committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $500 bail. He will reappear before Reilly Jan. 5.

Ulster County Association to Hear Guest Speaker

DR. ALLAN COTT

KINGSTON — Dr. Allan Cott, of New York City, will speak to UCACLD (Ulster County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities) and MHSA (The Mid-Hudson Schizophrenic Association), a co-sponsored meeting at the Edson School, Jan. 18.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the Edson School auditorium, on Merilina Avenue. Dr. Cott will speak of his successful use of megavitamins with the learning disabled as well as schizophrenic patients.

Dr. Cott began psychiatric training at the State Hospital, Marlboro, N.J. in 1939. He was consulting psychiatrist to Persian Gulf Command while in the military service from 1942-1946.

He began work with megavitamins in treatment of childhood schizophrenia and autism in 1965 and began work with the orthomolecular approach to the treatment of children with learning disabilities in 1967. He is a member of various associations, Pan American Medical Association, American Schizophrenic Association, AMA and New York Medical Society. He is currently attending staff of the Gracie Square Hospital, New York City.

Dr. Cott is author of various articles such as, Megavitamin Treatment in Childhood Schizophrenia and Orthomolecular Approach to the Treatment of Children With Behavioral Disorders and Learning Disabilities.

A short general meeting of UCACLD, will be held prior to the guest speaker. "UCACLD is elated to help support MHSA, by having Dr. Cott as guest speaker for a kick-off, to help establish such a worthwhile organization. UCACLD and MHSA invite and encourage all members, professionals, parents, friends and all those with interest to attend," a spokesman said. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Village, Town May Discuss Sewer Query

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties village officials have expressed their willingness to discuss with their town counterparts the disposal of sewage from the proposed Barclay Heights sewer improvement district.

The village board, after a lengthy discussion at Monday night's meeting, directed Mayor Cornelius Cox to meet with Village Attorney Daniel Lamb to draft a letter advising Saugerties Town Supervisor A. Michael Schovel of their willingness to meet and discuss an equitable settlement of the sewage problem. The action was in response to a request from Schovel asking the village for either a letter of intent or understanding that would commit the village to handling waste from the Barclay Heights District. Schovel said the letter was needed to complete a request for funds from the Department of Audit and Control.

Residents of the proposed sewage district have approved the move to have their waste taken into the village system provided all the facts are brought into the open so they will know the complete cost, not only for new lines and use of the system but also for reimbursement of the village for lines and plant already in use.

The Department of Transportation has advised the village that signposts on Main and Partition streets will be moved to make it easier for pedestrians to use the sidewalks. The village had filed a complaint after receiving numerous complaints that signposts were blocking sidewalks there.

The village will ask DOT officials about the status of a request filed in April, 1969, to have the Main-Partition intersection widened by moving back curbing. The village also asked the state to consider reinstalling stop signs on Partition Street south of Main advising motorists to stop there for red lights. The move would enable large trucks to make turns at the intersection.

The board heard a letter from the C.A. Lynch Hose Company putting firemen on record as approving purchase of a new emergency vehicle for the Saugerties Exempt Fire Association. May Cox advised the fire commissioner that a used vehicle was available and recommended he look it over to see if it would be suitable for an emergency truck.

Commerce Official Meeting Set

KINGSTON — Mid-Hudson area business firms interested in beginning expanding export trade will have an opportunity to meet with an official of the U.S. Department of Commerce during the week of Jan. 20.

Stanley Schwartz of the USDC Business Service Office in New York City will meet individually with businessmen of Columbia, Lutchess, Green, Orange, Sullivan, and Ulster counties Monday through Friday.

Schwartz, an international trade specialist, will have the Department's latest data on overseas markets and will counsel companies in foreign trade procedures and the use of governmental services to aid American exporters, including programs in trade leads, market research, agent-distributor contacts, and promotional exhibitions in foreign markets.

Interested businessmen in the six county area may schedule meetings with Schwartz by contacting the Greater Hudson Chamber of Commerce, the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, the Greater Newburgh Chamber of Commerce, the Mid-Orange Chamber of Commerce, or the Poughkeepsie Area Chamber of Commerce.

Santa Visits Village Green

WOODSTOCK

The happy notes of "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town" once again filled the air on the Village Green as the annual Christmas Eve program in Woodstock came to its climax. Santa Claus arrived escorted by an antique fire engine, and followed by a truckload of candy-filled stockings. The slow drizzle of rain failed to dampen the spirits of those waiting for Santa.

Every year for the past thirty-three, he has arrived in some unusual way to the delight of the youngsters. One year he arrived by dog sled. Another year, he came on a donkey and another time, on a fire engine. He has also appeared on the roof of several buildings flanking the Village Green. Probably, the most exciting arrival was when he appeared on the steeple of the Dutch Reformed Church. He slid to the ground on a boatswain's Chair.

The program held each year consists of singing carols and reading the Christmas story, prior to Santa's arrival. The event is sponsored by the Christmas Eve Committee, a group of interested citizens who gather each fall to plan the affair. The Committee also passes out cheer baskets to shut-ins in the area and dinner baskets to deserving families. The program is funded by contributions.

Co-chairmen of this year's committee were Paul Delisio and June Boyle. There are approximately twenty members on the committee. Many other groups assist in some phase of the program. The Senior Christian Youth Fellowship, the Woodstock Jayncees, and Pairs and Spares of Overlook Methodist Church helped with the baskets and stockings.

The fire department provided Santa's escort and helped with the Christmas tree on the Village Green. The Town Highway Department erected the tree. The Woodstock Youth Council helped decorate the Green. The police department and State police provided traffic control. Central Hudson controlled the street lights during Santa's arrival. Agapae Rebeckah Lodge provided their lodge for use by the committee. A newly-formed Madrigal group led in the singing of the carols.

County Breathing Easier

Near Epidemic Over... Was it Flu?

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Ulster County residents may be able to breathe easier now that Ulster County's near epidemic of respiratory illness is apparently on the wane.

A consensus of local medical men and women, school and industry officials taken Tuesday by The Freeman seems to indicate that the illness peaked just before Christmas and is apparently leaving people weak and tired—but nevertheless leaving.

Dr. Frederic Holcomb Jr., of IBM said the flu-like ailment did have an impact causing absenteeisms lasting from three days to a week. He told of sending 25 employes home in one day when they reported to his office complaining of not feeling well. He said he could not determine the true rate of absenteeism due to illness because the incidence of illness coincide with normal holiday-vacation periods during the past two weeks.

"But we definently had an epidemic of flu-like respiratory illness," he concluded.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Kingston reports some absenteeism between Christmas and New Years but "not a great deal."

Because no "official" reports of the unnamed illness have been forwarded to the Ulster County Department of Health, Dr. William C. Taylor, health commissioner, said he could not label the malady or call it an epidemic. He said that in talking with those who have been afflicted with respiratory illnesses in the past few weeks, he is not convinced that it is influenza that is affecting everyone. "It is no longer fashionable to just have an ordinary cold," he suggested.

Because there is no virus laboratory in Ulster County, Dr. Taylor called it extremely difficult to determine just exactly what it is that has been causing sore throats, chills, coughing, aches pains and complaints about ruined holidays. But, he adds, there is no county-wide epidemic at present, "It is nothing more than the average amount of illness for this time of year.

"Get rest and don't get chilled," he advised, adding facetiously, "In other words, don't stay up all night and don't run barefoot in the snow."

Dr. Taylor said that in times of true epidemic, his office gets reports from schools and industries throughout the county with regard to absenteeism usually running about 20 per cent or more, although the figure is arbitrary when it comes to closing schools.

Polling Kingston, Ellenville, Woodstock and Saugerties school officials, The Freeman learned that all were in agreement that the highest percentage of absenteeism due to respiratory illnesses came several days before Christmas.

In Saugerties it ran as high as 15 and 17 per cent during that period and had dropped to 7.7 per cent reported Monday, the first day of return from school vacation.

Kingston High School reported about 1,000 out of an 11,550 school population absent before the holiday and 792 out this past Monday.

Woodstock Central Schools reports a 12 per cent absenteeism prior to Christmas with seven per cent absent Monday.

In Ellenville it is reported that there still is sickness but not as bad as three days before the holiday.

Only the area hospitals report that admissions for respiratory illnesses continued during the past week with Miss Mary Finger, assistant administrator at Kingston Hospital telling of a lot of employees also being on the sick list. She said she "doesn't get the feeling that the illness has waned," adding that she finds no correlation between flu shots and the current incidence of respiratory ailments.

Dr. John A. Olivet, medical director of Benedictine Hospital, told of an increase in admissions for respiratory illness with more cases of pneumonia reported recently.

"It was pretty bad six days ago," he explained, adding that he to doesn't think the illness has waned with regard to those persons needing hospitalization.

Epidemic or not, the 'watch-amacallit' illness that has hit storekeepers, government employes a few docotrs and just about every other man on the street, is accomplishing something. It's giving folks something else to talk about besides the weather.

Paltz Pool Debate Growing As Referendum Date Nears

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The debate over the proposed pool at the Erman Park site in New Paltz grows more bitter as the Jan. 11 date for the referendum on the necessary bond issue approaches.

In the latest public statement on the matter, the Committee for the Alternate Pool Plan, the opposition to the present proposal, has charged that "proponents of the proposed Town of New Paltz swimming pool have deliberately distorted the facts and made contradictory statements to mislead and confuse the public in a desperate attempt to salvage the ill-conceived plan."

The charges are attributed in the statement to Village Trustee John Logan and Ralph Kulseng, the committee's co-chairmen.

The statement says there is "much evidence" to support the charges, the most significant evidence, according to the committee, being the contention of Town of New Paltz Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello that if the bond issue is rejected the grant will be lost for the foreseeable future.

The committee contends the money for the pool will be available for at least two fiscal years no matter which way the bond issue vote goes.

The pool project has received a matching funds grant of $235,950 from the U.S. Department of the Interior. The Jan. 11 vote is on a $240,000 bond issue for the town to match the grant. The matter was forced to referendum by petition, as provided for in Town Law.

The committee cites the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, section 15.400 in support of its claim that the funds will still be available if the bond issue goes down.

They quote the section as reading the type of grant in question will "remain available during the fiscal year appropriated and for two fiscal years afterward. Once a project has been approved, and money obligated, the amount committed remains available until expended."

Moriello has said repeatedly that Department of Interior officials and the office of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-28th) have told town officials if the bond issue is defeated the money will go to a town which wants the grant, and subsequent New Paltz grant applications would not be favorably considered for some time.

In a "fact sheet" ciruculated with the committee's statement, charges are made that the claims of the usefulness of the proposed facility have been inflated, the site donated by Jack Erman for the park is unsuitable, the tax rate will go up much more than proponents of the pool have claimed, the design of the pool is poor, and the whole project has been poorly planned.

The committee statement says claims have been made that the pool is a year around all purpose facility, and this is false. In recent statements, Moriello has said the pool is only a swim park, with more extensive facilities planned for later.

There are more feasible sites available, such as Erman's holdings on Bonticou Drive, according to the committee. Town officials have said the present site was the best available at the time the facility was planned.

The committee statement disagrees with the cost estimates of town officials. They say according to their figures, the pool will cost town residents a minimum of $6.45 per $1,000 yearly. Town officials have said the maximum the pool will cost is $5 per $1,000 yearly, and may be much lower.

The committee says the pool is poorly designed on a number of counts. Moriello has said the critics of the pool are not architects, and the design was good enough to secure approval of the Department of the Interior. Supporters of the pool have maintained its design is a strong point.

"Town officials failed to plan properly for this proposal," is the committee's final charge. The committee is particularly critical of the widely-spread cost estimates, which range from $390,000 to $480,000. The town officials say the cost estimates are keeping all options open.

Olive Passes Skating Rink

TOWN OF OLIVE

A group of West Shokan residents got the go-ahead from the Olive Town Board at Tuesday night's meeting to build an ice skating rink at West Shokan.

The residents will donate their time and labor. The town will furnish the materials.

The Kingston accounting firm of Ronder and Ronder was appointed auditors for the township.

New Supervisor James H. Glemming, who heads the new Democratic majority on the board, appointed a rescue squad committee to investigate the possibilities of forming an ambulance service for the township.

Bids were received on a new snow blower, and all were rejected. It was felt by board members that the bids were "way out of line" with town estimates, and it was decided not to purchase a snow blower at this time.

Glemming threw the floor open to the standing room only crowd which attended the meeting, inviting them to speak on whatever topics were on their minds. The two most popular topics were the possibility of a dog ordinance to control the large number of loose dogs in the town, and the improving of some land owned by the town in Shokan to allow for winter as well as summer recreation.

SB Leader Favors Changes

NEW YORK — The president of the Savings Banks Association of New York State said today he is in "substantial agreement" with the findings of a major study of "Savings Banking and the Public Interest" by Professor George J. Benston of the University of Rochester, that was released here earlier this week.

William G. Morton, who is president also of Onondaga Savings Bank, Syracuse, added that "if today's newspaper reports of the recommendations of the Presidential Commission on Financial Structure and Regulation are correct, they seem to be remarkably similar to those of Professor Benston."

Morton pointed out that the Benston study recommends that savings banks become less specialized in the services they offer the public and the ways in which they invest their funds. It maintains that savings banks should be allowed to offer a number of new services, including consumer installment loans, checking accounts and others such as mutual funds.

The Savings Banks Association president noted that "newspaper reports of the recommendations of the Presidential Commission regarding thrift institutions indicate that they include consumer loans, third-party payments services including checking accounts, mutual funds and expanded investment powers. The list is very similar to Professor Benston's."

Referring specifically to Benston's work, Morton Called it "an important study and a good one," but added, "I do not necessarily agree with everything that Professor Benston says."

Benston has stressed that although his study was commissioned by the association that Morton heads, his conclusions are his own and do not necessarily reflect association policy.

Morton said that he agrees with most of Benston's recommendations, but not all of them. "Our objective in commissioning the study," he said, "was not to get agreement but to stimulate discussion of proposals aimed at improving the availability and quality of financial services to the people of New York State."

Two Trains Canceled By Amtrak Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak, the National Railroad Passenger Corp., crossed two trains off its timetables today, claiming they were losing too much money.

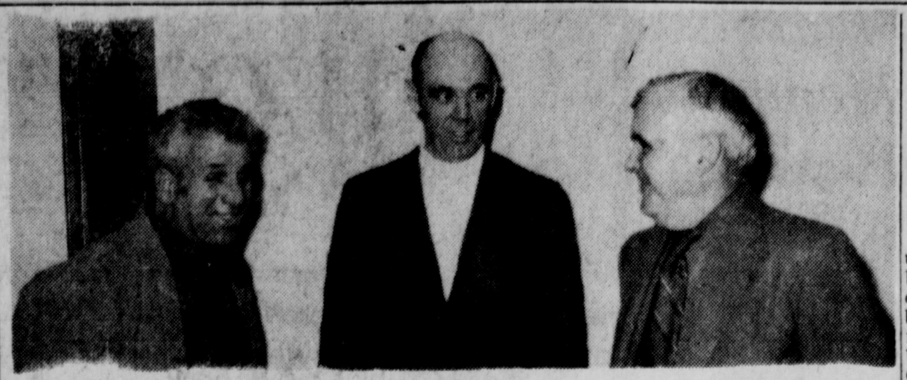

Scheduled to make their final departures early today were the east-and westbound Lake Shore trains, a through service connecting New York with Chicago via Buffalo and Cleveland.

An Amtrak spokesman said a $3.6 million deficit had been incurred on the service since it was established May 10 at the request of New York State, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

Patronage averaged less than 45 persons per train, the spokesman said.

Amtrak said the governors of Ohio and New York earlier had pledged to reimburse the public corporation for two-thirds of any losses incurred. Aid had been received from Ohio, but New York had paid nothing, the rail unit added.

It said the governors of Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois had agreed to try to work out a joint plan with Amtrak for restoration of the service "as soon as possible." Also under consideration were train routes that would receive a financial guarantee from Ohio alone.

FROST ABATEMENT MEETING — Shown are the featured speakers at a recent frost abatement meeting held at the New Paltz Savings Bank. Dr. C. G. Forshey (C) superintendent of the Hudson Valley Research Lab., and Harry Edinger (R) director of Environmental Sanitation for Ulster County, with Joseph Trapani, a Milton fruit grower. Forshey spoke of new methods of frost control which were ecologically sound and Edinger presented a a statement concerning the Health Departments position on frost abatement.

Unemployment Claims on Climb

KINGSTON — The number of claims for unemployment insurance filed by Ulster County residents continued to climb in December, with more than 12,000 recorded by the New York State Unemployment Office on Pine Grove Avenue.

There were, 2,030 new claims for unemployment insurance filed in December. Coupled with 10,304 continued claims for unemployed residents who apply each week for benefits, the total number of claims filed was 12,334.

December's total is the highest since early 1971. The number of claims have increased steadily since October, when 7,571 were filed. November's total was 9,012.

A spokesman for the New York State Division of Unemployment said that layoffs in the construction business represented a major portion of the new claims filed since October.

Hospital Dinner Donors Receive 'Thank You' Memento

Donors of $50 or more to the Ellenville Community Hospital Dinner Fund this week received a "thank-you" memento of the Nov. 21 hospital benefit gala.

The gift, a fine stainless steel carving set by Imperial, was provided to the hospital at no cost, coutesy of the Ulster Knife Company, to help promote the annual growth of the hospital dinner. The company has been a strong supporter of the hospital for many years, both by direct contribution and support of the hsopital dinner, and by the contribution of time and effort of its executives.

David Swinden, knife company official, has served as a hospital director since 1961 and currently serves as a vice-presient of the hospital board.

President Benjamin Lonstein expressed the appreciation of the hospital family to Mr. Swinden and the Ulster Knife Co. for this most recent gift. "We have been fortunate," Mr. Lonstein said "to have the support of the major industries of support for the hospital, and we are grateful that these industries help us each year."

Mr. Lonstein noted that the hospital needs support from everyone who can afford it, if high standards are to be maintained.

"Those who have not been able to support the Dinner Fund," he stated, "may become sustaining members of the hospital by a contribution of $5 or more." The Annual Sustaining Membership Campaign began last week.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

The following has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Gerlach of Bethel Park, Pa.

DEAR MRS. POST: So often the nurses in a doctor's office do many things for patients, not only aiding them prepare for the doctor's examination, but also easing the mental anxiety. I noticed, especially with my aged mother, that many nurses do not have their names on the uniforms or any place in the office.

It would be much more pleasant if patients could speak to the nurses by name rather than the usual "nurse." Also, when phoning the doctor's office, I feel it would be courteous for the person answering the phone to give her name. There could be a mix-up in appointments or a need to call back, and knowing the name of the party you originally spoke with could save a delay.

Many times there is quite a wait for the doctor and the little personal touch will make the wait more pleasant and seem shorter.

FRANCES GERLACH

DEAR MRS. GERLACH: A fine suggestion! I have frequently wished I knew a nurse's name myself, sometimes because I have wished to speak to one in particular, and other times simply because it seems so much warmer to be able to say "Good morning, Miss Jones."

I hope any nurses, or persons in a position to suggest this to a doctor, will follow up on this suggestion.

• • •

DEAR MRS. POST: A friend is giving a baby shower for me very soon. I gave her a list of friends with whom she is not acquainted. At the shower, should I meet the guests at the door with the hostess and make the introductions then?

BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE: Yes, that would be the best way to be sure that your hostess meets all of your friends.

DEAR MRS. POST: Our daughter is going to be married next April and wants to have a home wedding. The bridegroom and his mother are from out of town. Do I make room for them to stay here overnight or pay for their lodgings at a nearby motel? It would be crowded, but we could do it if it is proper.

Mrs. L.K.

Dear Mrs. K.: The bridegroom should not stay at your home as he should not be involved with the preparations the morning of the wedding. Nor should he be where he might see his bride in her wedding dress before she meets him at the altar. If he and his mother wish to stay together, they should be lodged in a motel. If that does not matter to them, the bridegroom could stay with his best man, at the home of a relative or good friend of yours. In that case, it would be nice to have his mother stay with you, even at the risk of some crowding. I'm sure she would enjoy taking part in the preparations.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Pornography Problems

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the secretary whose boss received pornographic mail was, in my opinion, short-sighted. The secretary's job is to assist her boss in his business duties, not to be forced to participate in his voyeurism.

Having had the same experience myself, I threw away the literature and photographs — choosing to believe that it was unsolicited mail rather than believe that the man I was expected to show respect for had thoughtlessly (or intentionally) subjected me to the trash that came in the mail addressed to him.

One day he asked me if that was all the mail there was because he had been expecting something else. It was then that I learned that he had actually sent for this pornography! I promptly admitted that some had come, but I had been throwing it away. He seemed shocked.

Then I asked him why he didn't have that stuff delivered to his home, and he replied, "My wife would be offended — she doesn't share my interest in voyeurism." I told him that I didn't either, and that I felt that I deserved no less consideration and respect than his wife.

This opened the door, conversationally, for him to tell me about his dreams and fantasies which involved me. It was apparent that he felt he was sharing with me an imagined experience which he thought I would find flattering. (People who get their kicks "watching," also enjoy talking about it.)

I quit my job, but the problem of what to tell prospective employers about why I left a top-paying job as secretary to the president of a well-known company plagued me, so once again, it is the woman who pays. Nuts to you, Abby!

"HAPPIER IN MY NEW JOB"

• • •

DEAR ABBY: The first time I come across pornography, I was working for the president of a large corporation. He was a very proper gentleman and a very shy one. Some mail came, and I opened it routinely, when all the filth fell out, I didn't know whether to put it on my boss's desk with the rest of his mail, or not. After pondering about it all day, I tore it up into tiny pieces and buried them at the bottom of the wastepaper basket.

From that time on, if any mail came that looked as tho it might contain pornographic material, I opened it partially to make sure, and if my suspicions were correct, I would seal it back up again and leave it on my boss's desk UNOPENED with the rest of his mail.

Since my boss never instructed my to throw away any envelopes that looked like those containing pornography, I had to assume that he had sent for it.

Since all this stuff is put on his desk UNOPENED, at least I am spared the embarrassment of having my boss think that I had seen it, too.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: The question about what a secretary should do when she has been instructed to open all her boss's mail and throw away the junk is a puzzling one — when her boss gets pornographic mail.

I know many competent secretaries who have had this problem, and you have no idea how many of them, right or wrong, destroy pornography to avoid embarrassment to themselves and their bosses.

If the bosses WANT to receive this type of literature (which is their privilege) why can't they arrange to have it sent to a post office box, or elsewhere, to spare their secretaries possible embarrassment?

If they don't want any part of it, why don't they instruct their secretaries to throw it away? Maybe we could hear from some of the bosses on this subject?

SLIGHTLY PUZZLED

DEAR SLIGHTLY: I wish we could. Bosses?

IT'S BACK TO THE DAYS OF LOLLIPOPS and hoola hoops with these sporswear fashions for spring. For girls, engineer stripe jeans of denim have patch pockets and scattered red heart design. Her scramble shirt features bright red body and butter yellow collar and cuffs. For guys, denim jeans come alive with stars, planets, stripes, checks and dots. His multi-colored track shoes suggest the playful, "good old days" of childhood. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The Suit Is Not Willing to Die

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Fashion has always reflected the economics, morals and life style of an era.

In today's world where social attitudes are changing so rapidly and with polarization of youth and the "establishment" well under way, the past uniformity in the clothes men wear is fast disappearing. You now get a sense of the man himself simply from his attire.

Since the youth contingent is the group with the greatest interest in fashion, and as sure as God made little green apples wants to look as different from the corporate image as possible, the men's clothing business became apprehensive about the future of the suit.

"Is the suit doomed?" clothing salesmen asked each other as their aisles seemed to be emptying while the men's boutiques, specialty shops and even Army-Navy stores were thriving.

Well the suit may have seemed to be dying on the racks. But it proved unwilling to be buried. It is still alive and well and living on the backs of the fellows who aren't kids, artists or entertainers and must earn a living in the world of business.

In a recent nationwide survey, by a large mill, statistics showed that 86 per cent of men usually wear a suit to business.

According to the Men's Fashion Assn. of America, the suit has lost popularity in some areas — suburban at-home entertaining, theater and dining, as work attire for creative types and youth — but is still dominant as office wear.

"Why single out the suit?" asked Ken O'Keefe of MFA "Women are wearing shorts and pants. Dress fittings and cuttings are down 25 per cent. But no one believes the dress is finished. Most people believe women will eventually tire of pants and return to the dress — as was evidenced in the recent fall collections."

Suit Signals Prestige

O'Keefe believes that the suit still signals prestige. "It's one way to tell the difference between the executive and the mail room boy," he said.

"In Australia during the hot months employes were allowed to shed their suits and wear Bermuda shorts with knee socks, shirt and tie. It was a popular move initially," he said, "but soon employes went back voluntarily to the suit for office garb."

The candidates to replace the business suit have been the vest suit, the shirt suit and the unconstructed suit — all still called "suits" because men are willing to give up the term. But these had little acceptance.

Bernard Miller, publisher of Gentlemen's Quarterly, the elite men's fashion publication, admits that the men's fashion industry and the magazine industry and the magazine itself overreacted to the bizarre trends in male attire. In their September '71 issue they declared, "The Costume Party Is Over," and boldly ushered in "The Return of the Gentleman."

Here are some other opinions of men in the trade on the future of the suit.

Tom Urso, manager of menswear merchandising for American Enka, feels that there will be a big increase in the suit business for fall 1972.

"Menswear fashion is polarizing into two separate areas," he said, "clothes for formal wear are becoming classic in styling and for leisure wear the message is soft and natural."

Knits, Knits, Knits

He believes that knits — double knits and wrap knits — are stimulating sales. The knit suit is comfortable, easy to keep up and promises wrinkle-free performance.

This spring, Urso says there will be emphasis on classic patterns in suits and jackets will be shaped and longer.

Steve Cohen of Louis Goldsmith has an exciting line of polyester knit suits. He said his company is running 100 per cent of their line in knits and they are completely oversold.

Ben Rosenthall, national sales manager of Michael Stern, said, "Suits will be settling down fashionwise and designer type suits are out of the picture."

Jerry Finn, director of merchandising and sales for Timely said, "The entire industry has been gimmicked to death. We are now headed towards clothes that can be called classic-traditional.

"As women's apparel gets more elegant men's clothing follows. Suits will be shaped, have surpression, longer jackets, wide lapels and the lapels will be rounded giving the shoulders a broad appearance."

And last, we have the opinion of that undisputed authority in the business, John Weitz. "At least for awhile," he said, "the suit will be even more in evidence than it has been in the past few seasons. He believes it is a symbol of trust in business.

"A man who has a lousy report to give his stockholders won't stand up at the meeting in kooky clothes and a Fu Manchu mustache.

"With stocks going down a company executive has to answer to the people who have placed trust in him. He can't wear way-out clothes, sideburns and bellbottoms and expect their confidence.

Must Look the Part

You have to look the part to play the game. Fair or not, for example, an accountant is not expected to be a fop. He must look neat, trim, icy cold and dependable. So the suit will last."

But Weitz believes that in some work areas the suit is disappearing — oil business in Oklahoma, aircraft industry in South Carolina and land development in Florida, for a start.

"These men can do their jobs better when unencumbered," he added.

Weitz feels that men in America today will be seen for their shirts more than their suits and that the suit jacket will eventually get into tomorrow's mood.

"Pockets will fall by the wayside," he said, "because men can now get along with just two charge cards."

But he believes that the business suit is still important in its present form.

So, all opinions considered, it would seem that the suit is not doomed — except perhaps in the opinion of the kids. And the kids will eventually grow up.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

CHEER UP, you chaps who felt perhaps the suit was doomed. There may be a few changes in styling, but for both business and casual wear it's still very much in evidence. Light tan suit in wool and polyester (L) features the wide lapels that are now accepted style in men's suits. It is from Hart, Schaffner & Marx. A sportsuit can be worn in the city as well as the country, reports the Men's Fashion Association. Wool plaid suit (R) from Pierre Cardin, U.S.A., is in aubergine, a new color for this season.

Tiny Tips

Military Look

The military or carefully tailored look in jackets may be beautifully contrasted with translucent crepe blouses with clumps of flowers or fruit gathering at the neck.

More on Lips

Let your colored lip glosses double as a cheek gloss. Or if the color is of a brown shade, use it for facial contour.

Interpretation Is Key

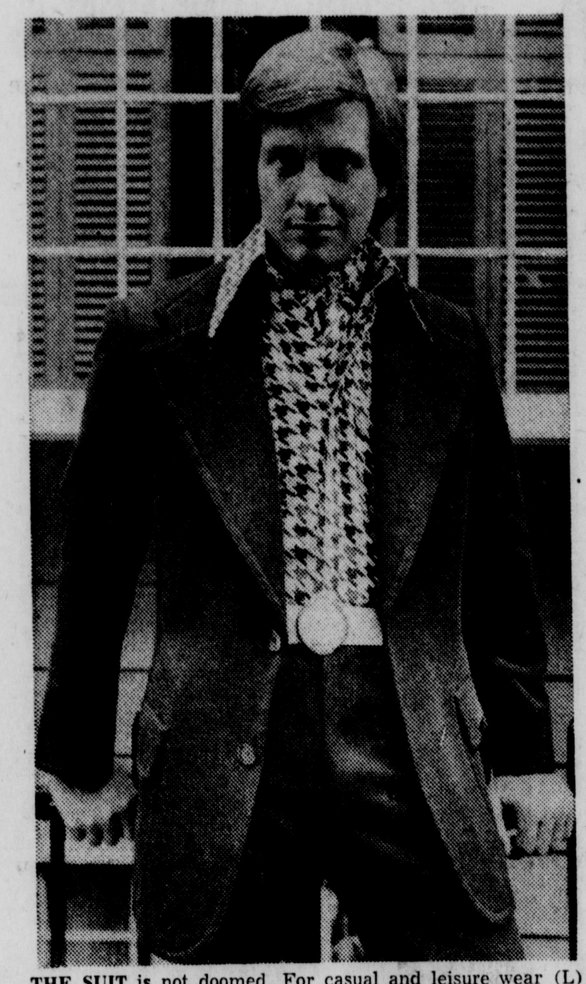

Today Europe and the United States are on the same fashion wavelengths, say fashion coordinators at Celanese, adding: "A report of either market would wind up with the same basic directions in fabric and silhouette. The key to the difference lies in the emphasis on those directions with their infinite variety of interpretations . . ."

Lip Gloss

Colorless lip gloss can serve as more than a lip moisturizer. Try using it just below the eyebrow as a sparkling eye highlight.

About the Folks

Mrs. Elizabeth Quick of 185 East Chester Street, Kingston, is spending the winter with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Haines of Biloxi, Miss.

THE SUIT is not doomed. For casual and leisure wear (L) is a royal blue and white suit outfit by Hardie Amies. The fabric is wool knit fashioned in a single-breasted model. Jacket lining matches the silk shirt.

It's Simple...But It's Sophisticated

The continental custom of serving fruit and cheese at the end of a meal, rather than a heavy dessert, is meeting with great approval in America. Of course, the perfect fruit to choose is the beautiful apple, with its lovely hues of red and gold, its crisp, juicy texture, and its delightful tart-sweet flavor. A smooth, mellow cheese.

Try this new way to serve apples and cheese, either as a dessert, or to accompany chilled cider for a first course.

Cheese Medley With Apples

One package (six ounces) Danish Cream Cheese
One package (eight ounces) cream cheese
One jar (five ounces) pimento cheese spread
One carton (eight ounces) creamed cottage cheese
Two tablespoons whipping cream
One-Third cup coarsely chopped pecans

Combine cheeses; blend well. Stir in cream and pecans. Serve as a dip with red and yellow apples cut in eights. Makes about 3 cups.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My son has a nylon jacket with a hood enclosed in the zippered collar.

One day I accidently burned a sleeve with a too hot iron.

What to do? I put on my thinking cap and cut off the hood and had enough material to make two elbow patches — one for each sleeve. I opened the sleeve seam so I could put them on more easily.

The jacket was saved and no one was the wiser but what the patches were there when the jacket was new!

DEAR HELOISE:

Know what I found out recently?

The bakery department of your favorite supermarket will now freeze a birthday cake or other special occasion cake they've baked for you . . . isn't that marvelous?

I found this out just the other day when I wanted to take a cake with us in the car to another city.

The cake kept great on the trip. No oozy frosting, and it looked just beautiful! And tasted just as beautiful as it looked.

• • •

DEAR HELOISE:

Parents who find their children engaged in teasing each other in the automobile might take a tip from my sister-in-law.

When her children were young, one of them had the privilege of sitting in front with father, while she sat in back with the other one.

Each child had the attention of one parent, so vital to growing children.

When there were three, mother sat in the back between two of them, allowing each a window, and discouraging teasing.

You never hear Father or Mother yelling, "you kids be quiet back there!"

Bucks Finally Break Jinx

DRIVE, HE SAID—Milwaukee Bucks' Kareem Abdul Jabbar found it hard to get around a pushing New York Knicks' Jerry Lucas (32) in the first quarter of their game Tuesday. Knicks' Dave DeBusschere (R) looks on. Bucks won. (UPI)

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Oscar Robertson shrugged and said it was just another game. But the bloodthirsty crowd and a miffed New York Coach Red Holzman may have been better tipoffs.

Technically, it counted no more than any other National Basketball Association regular-season game. But the last Milwaukee Arena seats for it had been sold Nov. 19.

And with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar leading the way with 39 points, the Milwaukee Bucks rendered the 10,746 fans delirious with a 121-100 victory over Holzman's Knicks.

Robertson added 22 points and Bob Dandridge—at last shaking free of Dave DeBusschere—scored 18 as the Bucks avenged a 101-99 loss to the Knicks at New York the night before. The Bucks, although defending champions, now have beaten the Knicks only five times in 18 games since Abdul-Jabbar joined Milwaukee three seasons ago.

The night was complete for the cheering crowd when, with the Bucks far ahead in the closing minutes, it was announced Chicago had lost to Phoenix to stretch the Bucks lead to 4½ games over the Bulls in the Midwest Division.

The Knicks trailed throughout as they slipped 1½ games behind Boston in the Atlantic Division. Abdul-Jabbar scored 14 points as the Bucks broke to a 36-23 lead early in the second period.

Fans Like Dean

They widened it to 17 points before Dean Meminger, the former Marquette University star, entered the game to a thunderous ovation and scored five quick points to pull New York to within 56-46 at halftime.

New Buck Curtis Perry, who finished with a team-leading 10 rebounds in only 31 minutes, connected for nine points in the third quarter as Milwaukee raced to a 90-71 margin. A 12-1 spurt made it 106-82 with six minutes left in the game.

Walt Frazier, who had scored New York's final 13 points the night before, led his team again with 21 but only eight came after intermission. Sub Luther Rackley was next with 14 but DeBusschere, always a Milwaukee thorn, managed just five on one basket in eight attempts in 29 minutes.

"Getting the ball off the boards better was the key for us, but for myself it was just another game," Robertson said.

'I don't know about the other guys, but Kareem seemed fired up. They gave him that bad recepion in New York and he still thinks about it," Robertson said. He referred to the chants of 'Bye-bye Lewie" when the Knicks clinched a playoff series against Milwaukee and the former Lew Alcindor in New York two years ago.

"This is a good indication of what we can do when we play our game," said Bucks Coach Larry Costello. "There's no question we should get stronger as the season goes along."

"I thought we played hard last night, but some unfortunate things happened and we lost by two points," said Costello, who had been bitterly critical of the officiating after the game in New York.

Red Unhappy

Holzman didn't like it when the Bucks called time out with a 22-point lead and only 52 seconds left. Holzman responded with two time outs of his own—with 40 and 20 seconds left.

Costello insisted he wasn't trying to embarrass the Knicks, noting Milwaukee hadn't yet taken its required minimum of one time out in the fourth quarter.

"I was told we had to take one," he said. 'I guess he (Holzman) thought I took it intentionally so he took one, but I didn't."

Holzman said sarcastically Costello perhaps "didn't know the rule, or maybe he didn't have a chance to take it (time out) because it was such a close game. I thought if he took one, gee, I certainly should be entitled to one, too."

The Bucks outshot the Knicks 50.5 per cent to 42.4 and had a 48-45 edge in rebounds. New York, which had committed only four turnovers the night before, had 23 this time to Milwaukee's 16.

Meanwhile, in the NBA, Phoenix defeated Chicago 112-108, Philadelphia topped Detroit 131-127, Houston downed Seattle 119-110, Golden State crushed Buffalo 112-86, and Atlanta whipped Portland 103-91.

Phoenix' Connie Hawkins, who earlier was involved in a fight with Chicago's Bob Love, scored five points in the final minute and stole a key pass as the Suns ended the Bulls seven-game winning streak. Clem Haskins led Phoenix with 23 points. Chet Walker had 26 for the Bulls.

Billy Cnningham fired in 17 of his 39 points in the final period as Philadelphia held off a Detroit rally that saw the Pistons cut a 19-point 76ers lead to one. Jimmy Walker topped Detroit with 31 points.

Calvin Murphy came off the bench to score 28 points and record a career high 12 assists, and another reserve, Rudy Tomjanovich grabbed 22 rebounds, helping Houston beat Seattle. Lee Winfield and Spencer Haywood shared scoring honors for Seattle with 22 points apiece.

Pete Maravich incurred a technical foul with 2:28 left, then whipped in eight straight points in the next 1½ minutes, leading Atlanta over Portland. Maravich finished with 23 points. Walt Bellamy was high for Atlanta with 24.

Hondo Heads East

NEW YORK (UP)—Veteran Boston Celtic forward John (Hondo) Havlicek heads the East squad announced today for the 22nd annual National Basketball Association East-West All-Star game Jan. 18 in Los Angeles.

Havlicek, an all-star for the seventh straight year, was the top vote-getter in the balloting conducted by sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 league cities.

Joining Havlicek on the team are Celtic center Dave Cowens, a 6-foot-9 graduate of Florida State in only his second pro season, and Boston guard Jo Jo White.

The starting team for the East will be comprised of Havlicek and Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia at forward, Cowens in the pivot and Walt Frazier of New York and Lou Hudson of Atlanta at guard.

Also named in the balloting are Knick forward Dave DeBusschere and center Wes Unseld of Baltimore.

The East's counterparts on the West squad include guards Jerry West and Gail Goodrich and center Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers, center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks —the West's top vote-getter—and forwards Spencer Haywood of Seattle, Bob Love of Chicago and Cazzie Russell of the Golden State Warriors. The West squad was announced Monday.

The eight coaches in the Eastern Conference of the NBA will select six additional players for the team. League rules stipulate that each club must be represented by at least one player and at least three of the remaining six squad members must be drawn from the Buffalo, Cincinnati and Cleveland clubs. No single team may be represented by more than three players.

No. Illini Fans Liked the Action

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

While not everybody in Northern Illinois' gym liked the music before the game against Indiana Tuesday night, there were no complaints about the sweet sounds on the court once the game got started.

The Huskies, who came into the game with a 102.5 scoring average—second highest in the nation—upset fifth-ranked Indiana 85-71 despite a 30-point outburst by the Hoosiers' Jobie Wright.

The national anthem was played before the game, the first time since Northern Illinois President Richard Nelson imposd a ban on its playing Dec. 4. The ban had been placed because of objections by black students at the school.

When the anthem was played Tuesday night, Northern's six black cheerleaders walked off th floor and most of the black students in the crowd refused to stand.

But everybody liked the game that came after the anthem—everybody, that is, except the visitors.

Northern jumped off to a 10-3 lead in the opening 2½ minutes and was never threatened. The Huskies led 43-33 at the half, raised the spread to 63-42 after eight minutes of the second half and then coasted home.

The victory was Northern Illinois' eighth in nine outings, while Indiana suffered its second loss against eight triumphs. Jim Bradley led the Huskies in scoring with 24 points, 12 in each half, while Billy Harris added 18.

On the Coast

In a pair of West Coast games, eighth-ranked Long Beach State raised its record to 10-1 by taking a 95-82 decision over Temple, now 8-3, while No. 16 Hawaii was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Los Angeles Loyola 88-78.

Long Beach, registering its 47th consecutive rome victory, as paced by center Nate Stephens, who scored 19 points and guard Ed Ratleff, who added 15.

Steve Smith, Loyola's 6-foot-8 center, scored 32 points and grabbed 22 rebounds as Hawaii suffered its first loss in 10 games. Loyola, which led all the way, is now 4-5.

Sophomore forward John Falconi hit his last 10 field goal attempts to pace Davidson to an 88-84 upset over No. 17 St. John's in New York.

Davidson, 7-3, trailed 43-38 at the half, surged ahead 69-55 with 10:50 remaining, then held off a late charge by the Redmen, now 8-3.

"We just didn't want this one," lamented St. John's Coach Frank Mulzoff. "We weren't ready to play."

Falconi was high man in the game with 24 points, while Bill Schaeffer topped St. John's with 20.

Squeaker

No. 20 Florida State squeaked past St. Louis 63-62 to win the Senior Bowl basketball crown in Mobile, Ala. The Billikens, trailing by one point in the finai minute, held the ball for one last do-or-die attempt, but Harry Rogers' 20-footer missed at the buzzer.

Florida State climbed to 10-2 with the victory, while the defeat was the first for St. Louis in seven outings.

Princeton, 7-2, got 41 points from its backcourt duo of Brian Taylor and Ted Manakas and defeated Michigan 91-82 at Princeton. Henry Wilmore, making his first start since suffering a knee injury two weeks ago, led all scorers with 29 points for Michigan.

Missouri, 11-1, raced to a 59-43 lead over Ohio U., then held on to beat the Bobcats 78-76. Greg Falker and John Brown netted 20 apiece for Missouri, while Jim Corde led Ohio with 23.

In other games, Niagara, 9-1, rolled over Bowling Green 88-74; Vic Thomas hit on his first 10 shots and finished with 22 points as St. Bonaventure, 5-2, overpowered Baldwin-Wallace 100-69; Ron Behagen scored 25 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to spark Minnesota past Chicago-Loyola 84-59, and in a pair of overtime contests, Colorado nipped Tulane 75-74 and Southern Methodist edged Oklahoma 96-92.

Two touring national teams came out on the short end. The Australians were beaten by Yale 103-90, while the Poles dropped an 84-75 decision to Tennessee.

NCAA Thinks $

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)—It's the same old problem—money and how to save it — that's going to create the biggest stir at the NCAA's convention opening here Thursday.

The hassling over how not to spend the dollar already has started at the pre-convention meetings of the powerful executive council.

The council Tuesday decided that the NCAA can't really make a decision on a package of proposals drastically cutting back on scholarships for athletes, until it completes a planned overhaul of the structure.

The reorganization could open wide avenues of compromise among the big, financially-successful colleges, and those struggling to get out of the red.

The proposals to offer scholarships on the basis of need will not be decided at the convention here, but a vote will be taken on whether to hold a special convention next summer to consider the hotly-debated matter. A vote against the special meeting would be an almost-fatal setback for the money-saving step.

But a vote will be taken this week on proposals restricting extensive recruiting practices.

The measure would allow a college recruiter to visit a high school athlete only once, and permit the athlete only one visit to each of five campuses at the most.

It also would restrict recruiting to high school seniors.

The council Tuesday voted to let college basketball teams begin their season the last Friday in November, instead of the December 1 date. The new date could come as early as Nov. 24.

Council endorsement of a relatively-noncontroversial proposal usually assures its passage.

The council was meeting in preparation for the NCAA's 66th annual convention which begins Thursday.

Widing Helps LA

OAKLAND (AP) — Juah Widing has returned to the Los Angeles King's lineup. And, it's beginning to show in the record book.

The Kings, undisputed cellar holder in the National Hockey League West Division, have won six of their last 11 games after taking only five of the first 28 this season. They've moved up to within four points of sixth place St. Louis.

The latest Kings' victory came Tuesday when they scorched the California Seals 4-1. It was the night's only NHL game.

Widing fired in two of the goals, one of them within the first minute. He's managed to score in the last six Kings' games, equalling a club record.

The Kings meet the Seals again tonight in the first of a seven-game road trip. And coach Fred Glover seemed to be in high spirts about hitting the road.

"If you're playing well, you'll come home with some wins," Glover said after the victory over California. "I think we're ready for the road trip now.

Congressmen Want Colts to Stay

BALTIMORE (AP) — Where the Baltimore Colts will play 1972 preseason games remained in doubt today, but two Maryland congressmen have warned of antitrust legislation unless regular season games are played at home.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., said Tuesday in view of persistent rumors concerning a possible franchise shift, he would pursue a bill he introduced last November which would possibly place football and other sports under antitrust laws.

And Rep. Edward Garmatz, also D-Md., said he would introduce similar legislation when Congress reconvenes later this month. Emanuel Cellar, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, has a similar bill in the hopper.

Meanwhile the Colts, who are rumored dickering for a transfer to Tampa, Fla., offered the prospect Tuesday of higher 1972 ticket prices unless a suitable preseason schedule can be arranged.

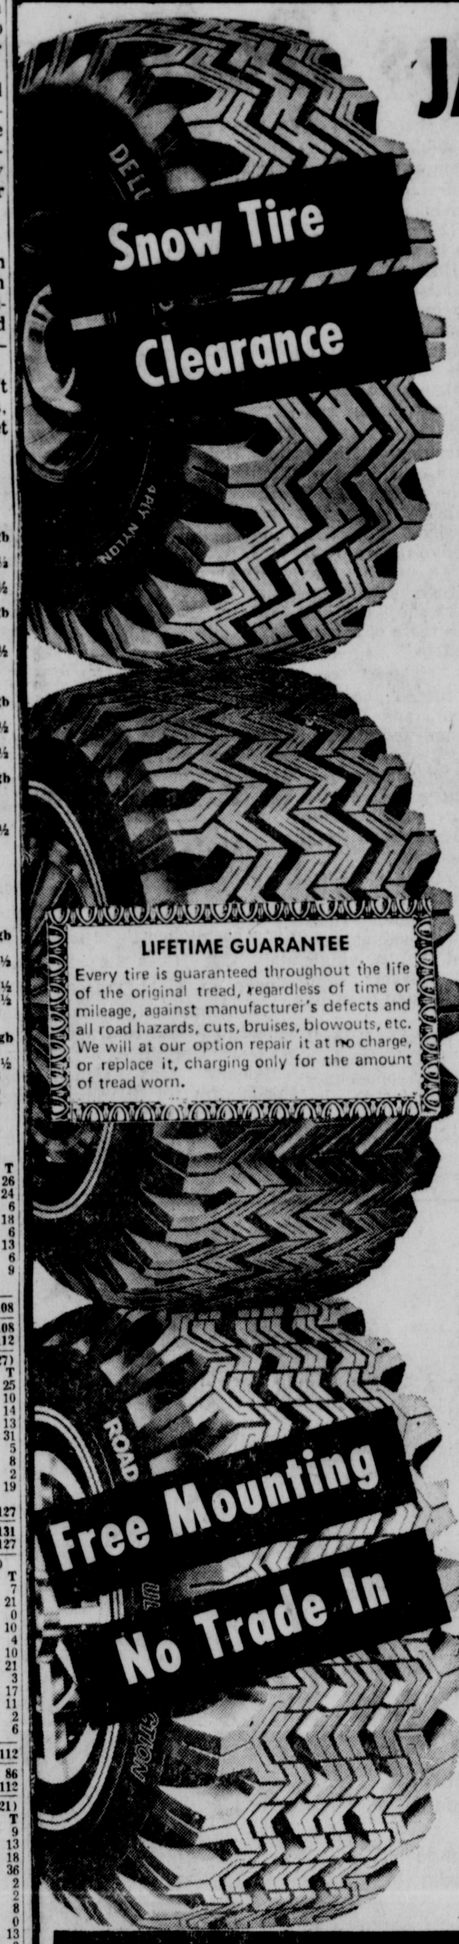

In an interview, General Manager Don Klosterman also said the Colts had not sought permission from the National Football League to move their franchise.

"We agree with Commissioner Pete Rozelle," Klosterman said, "that a team should not move as long as it is supported and can operate in a reasonable economic manner.

"But we also feel that no other owner or the commissioner can legislate the team into bankruptcy."

Open Man Clicks for KHS

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

Red Holzman emphasized it, the Knicks utilized it, Dave DeBusschere wrote a book about it.

"It" is hitting the open man, a basketball fundamental that has stood the test of time. Now Kingston High School Coach Mike Rienzo is telling his players about it and the Maroons are listening as was displayed in their convincing 64-41 victory over Poughkeepsie in Kate Walton Field House Tuesday evening.

"I've been trying to point out the importance of team play," Rienzo said after his team had overcome an uninspired first quarter to beat the Pioneers. "New Hartford drove it home to us in the tournament (the Oneonta Christmas Tourney won by New Hartford, first round conquerors of KHS). We were about the same physically as they were, but they were more disciplined. They made us more aware of the open man."

So Kingston drilled to master the technique and though it wasn't 100 per cent successful because of some slippery fingers and an occasional overlooked forward, the principle still paid off in spades.

"The important thing," said the satisfied KHS coach, "was that when someone didn't hit the open man, they were aware of it and it won't happen again."

Rienzo revealed another thing about the improvement in Kingston's performances of late. "We set an objective of holding the other team to under 50 points a game. In the six games Adams has been in (center Tony Adams, who was injured early in the season), we're five and one and have given up less than 50 on the average even though New Hartford scored quite a bit on us."

The defense made Poughkeepsie look silly. This was the same Pioneer team which had turned an 18 point Kingston lead into a PHS win several weeks ago. But in that one the Maroons chose to race up and down the court with the Bridge City Quintet. This time things were different.

Adams' presence forced KHS to slow up and heady Walt Houghtaling made sure of it with a particularly fine quarterbacking job. So Poughkeepsie ran and chucked while Kingston rebounded and set up.

And with few of the Pioneers connecting on their wild tosses the Kingston job was made that much easier.

Only in the first quarter did the Maroons take a backseat as Poughkeepsie hit three late buckets to grab a 12-7 lead while Kingston had trouble finding the hoop.

But in the second session Kingston hit the first 11 points, Poughkeepsie not reaching the board until 2:45 remained in the half, and it took a free throw at that to notch the point. The Pioneers knocked in a mere two field goals in the quarter, the first with 32 seconds left and the other at the buzzer.

Tom Turco and Houghtaling were the offensive heroes of the period, the forward with seven of his game high 17 points, and the guard with four of his 12.

Adams and Chuck Jackson made themselves felt as well, harassing the Poughkeepsie team and clearing the boards.

A brief Pioneer burst after intermission brought the count to 27-26 just into the third quarter, but Turco was free on a pretty feed from Houghtaling to pickup one bucket, and Walt tallied from the corner right after the assist to begin Kingston's final drive.

The Maroons wound up the quarter with the last 10 points on their side, boosting the margin from 37-30 to 47-30 and it was all but over.

The win pushed Kingston above the .500 mark for the first time this season (5-4) and since the Maroons are without a league affiliation their overall goal has to be to remain above sea level.

REBOUNDS— Joe DeFino's JV team won its ninth in a row, 64-59, in the preliminary game. Raymond Gay had 18 points and Bob Williams dunked 16.

Tonight's basketball game between Kingston High School and Ketcham in Wappingrs Falls has been postponed until Thursday at 8 p. m.

Saugerties Routs Rondout, 61-36

STONE RIDGE

The outside shooting of Craig Wrolsen and great defensive work by Joe Hellenschmidt led Saugerties High to its second 25 point hoop win over Rondout Valley this season as the visiting Sawyers took early command and were never headed in a 61-36 victory.

"It wasn't a great game for us offensively but Craig and Joe came through with their best games of the season," said Saugerties coach Larry Marcus in praise of Wrolsen and Hellenschmidt.

Wrolsen found himself wide open for 12 points in the first half when the Ganders keyed their defense to shut off Sawyer aces Rich Koegel and Tom Whitaker. Hellenschmidt was a tiger off the defensive boards as the Saugerties zone had Rondout missing badly.

The Ganders never got going and spent most of the night holding the ball and looking for the opening shots that weren't there. Bill Joyner and Steve James tried some bombs in an attempt to open the Sawyers up but only had limited success at best.

"We played a smart game and moved the ball well," said coach Marcus, who added that the Sawyers didn't exhibit much staleness following the long Christmas break.

The win over non-league opponent Rondout stretched Saugerties' perfect record to 5-0. The Sawyers will put their 2-0 DCSL mark on the line in a tough game at John Jay Friday night.

Koegel was held in check for most of the contest but still managed to get 12 points. He didn't force the issue and was content to wait for his openings, while the rest of the Sawyers took the shots. He again showed a fine ball handling ability, as he dribbled the length of the court several times.

The Ganders were forced into a pressing game in order to catch up but Saugerties picked them apart when the play opened up. Ray Bear played his usual hustling game and had the Ganders fouling him at both ends.

Rondout draws a bye in UCAL competition and will have a week to get ready for unbeaten Liberty. The Ganders are 1-4 in the UCAL Southern Division.

Rolf Koola's 18 points enabled the Gander jayvees to turn back the junior Sawyers, 43-38. Larry Panella, Clark Hackett, and Mark Silinovich all had nine points for Saugerties.

Rhinebeck Keeps Rolling

By STEVE KANE

RHINEBECK

"Well, we held Paul Kane to 31 points," shrugged Red Hook High School basketball Coach Ron Chando, and that's about all he could say after his Raiders had been demolished by host Rhinebeck, 73-54, Tuesday night.

But Kane was hardly the sum of the Rhinbeck success story. The Indians haven't lost since their opener against Germantown, and it may be awhile before they do.

Jim Yarbrough, a real leaper, and strong Rich Foss collected practically every rebound in sight for the Indians, and their second efforts on the offensive boards left Yarbrough with 13 points and Foss with 11. Yarbrough's defensive abilities were also displayed as he blocked several shots and came up with two steals.

Rhinebeck jumped off quickly to a 16-8 first quarter lead on some balanced shooting and ran it to a 12-point bulge at halftime. Then they handled the expected Red Hook press like it wasn't there, adding 10 points on the margin in the third period. Kane burned the nets for 15 in the stanza, hitting three buckets within the last half minute including a jump shot at the buzzer that brought the sell-out crowd to its feet.

Charles Sharman, Rhinebeck's third-year coach, wasn't surprised at the outcome: "I thought we'd beat them. We haven't lost since the first game, and the boys have been looking good. We usually play better defense than tonight, but they (Red Hook) shoot the ball up so fast it was more of a pace than we're used to."

It was the Raiders' poor shooting that turned the contest into a rout, and Chando admitted "we only shot about 25 per cent."

The game was almost four minutes old before a Dan Theberge free throw got the Raiders on the scoreboard. And they never caught up.

Rhinebeck played nearly flawless basketball throughout most of the game. Their defensive rebounding continually allowed but a single shot by the invaders and minimized any damage done by turnovers.

"Im very glad to get by them," said Sharman. "They're always one of our toughest opponents because of the rivalry involved."

John Funk led the Raiders with 16 points, Theberge had 14 and Dana Kilgour added 10.

The Rhinebeck bench contributed to the victory. Tim Decker ably spelled Yarbrough who got in early foul trouble, and Red Hook only closed within 19 in the final minutes.

Friday the Indians return to DCSL Bi-Valley competition with a trip to Dover. The showdown with Millbrook is scheduled for next week. Red Hook closes its week against UCAL opponent Onteora in an away game.

The night's junior varsity tussle was a success for the little Raiders, as they stomped Rhinebeck, 65-40. The house was full even for this one.

Frazier Dazzles Chess Master

Even Bobby Was Impressed

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Russell has seen a couple of basketball games in his time.

He isn't easily impressed. Especially by what he sees on a basketball floor.

What he saw Monday night at Madison Square Garden impressed him though. Tremendously.

Bobby Fischer, the international chess grand master who meets Russia's Boris Spassky for the world championship soon, hasn't seen as many basketball games as Bill Russell.

But he's an even tougher nut to crack.

He doesn't get impressed about anything.

It was different Monday night. He showed up for his first basketball game in more than five years and he was impressed, too.

So were such otherwise cold cucumbers as Willis Reed, Earl "The Pearl" Monroe, Oscar Robertson and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. They all paid the highest praise one professional can pay another and all talked about the same man—Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks.

Walt Frazier played the kind of game Monday night kids like to dream about. Grown men, too.

What's more he picked the perfect time. With the game nationally televised and a capacity 19,588 on hand, Frazier ran off 13 straight points in the final 2:38, collaborated with Phil Jackson in a vital heart-stopping "steal" 20 seconds from the end and wound up receiving one of the most tumultuous ovations ever accorded any athlete at Madison Square Garden for leading the Knicks to a 101-99 win over the Milwaukee Bucks in a movie-like finish.

"'Great!' that's the only way to describe it," said Bill Russell, on hand to do the color commentary for national TV. "The last time I ever saw anything like it was in 1958 when Bob Pettit scored 51 points in the final game of the playoffs against us (Boston). They (St. Louis) beat us and he got 19 of their last 21 points."

Bobby Fischer blinked his eyes when he saw the Knicks gain possession 20 seconds from the end with the score tied 99-all. Earl Monroe passed off to Bill Bradley on his left. Bradley gave the ball to Frazier, who nearly lost it, but quickly regained control and began his move with eight seconds left.

Frazier killed five more seconds and then with only three remaining, he hit with a jumper and the whole place went plumb mad.

"You're used to complete quiet when you play," Dave DeBusschere said to Bobby Fischer in the Knicks' dressing room afterward. "What did you think?"

"Very exciting," Fischer said, giving the question proper thought before answering.

"What did you think of Frazier?" someone else asked the blond chess whiz.

"Extraordinary," Fischer said, much more quickly this time.

"Fantastic," put in DeBusschere. "He was just incredible at the end."

Willis Reed, sitting on the Knicks' bench with tendonitis, called Frazier's performance "unbelievable" and Monroe remarked "It's getting so you sort of expect it from him."

Oscar Robertson, who vainly tried to keep Frazier from getting off his game-winning shot, said, "You can't take it away from him, he played a great game" and Jabbar agreed "he hit some tough shots there at the end." Tough wasn't really the word.

The Bucks were out front the whole game, once by as much as 13 points, and the Knicks shot.

"I thought it would hit the rim," said the Knicks' bearded backcourt dynamo who wound up with 31 points for the night. "I had some doubts about that last one because all my shots were a struggle. I was pulling to the left or right all night."

Why, because of the pressure?

"It could've been," laughed Frazier. "I know the game was just another game in the standings but I was a little tight. Really, I was embarrassed the way I was playing. I knew it was a national televised game and my parents were watching in Atlanta, Georgia. I wanted to play well but I realized I wasn't. I had only six points at the half."

Walt Frazier got a little better as the game went on.

Enough so that he got a rise out of Bill Russell. That seldom happens. Enough so that he also got one out of Bobby Fischer.

And that simply never happened before.

Landry Understands Thomas

DALLAS (UPI)—Duane Thomas, the sphinx-like running phenom of the Dallas Cowboys who refuses to be interviewed or pose for pictures, is no mystery man to his coach, Tom Landry.

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound, 24-year-old No. 1, 1970 draft choice out of West Texas State has drawn a curtain around himself after joining the club late. His return came after bitter verbal combats with Cowboys management over his feelings that his original three-year contract needed revisions.

He is a tremendous football player and he's played like one ever since he broke back into the lineup in the first game of the regular schedule, but he's done all his talking with his talents on the field.

He rooms alone at home and on the road. He sits alone in the middle of the three-seat sections on the team's charter flights, sits off to himself on the bench while not on the field and declines all efforts to draw him into conversation.

The Cowboys' home town press corps has learned to live with the situation and after repeated rebuffs have left him alone. They have asked Landry about him, but Landry's repeated reply has been, "I don't have any trouble communicating with him."

But, some of the out-of-town writers covering the 14-3 Dallas National Football Conference title game victory over San Francisco Sunday asked Landry if he could explain the "Thomas situation" to them because they found it very difficult to comprehend.

"I don't know that I can explain it," Landry told them, "but I'll try.

"Duane is a unique individual. His sole objective is to prepare to play football and he just doesn't like distractions. He's smart. You don't have to tell him anything much and he doesn't ask. But, he listens.

"You (meaning himself as coach) and the team just have to understand him. He acts as though he's not a part of the team, but he is. And, I and the team, have learned to understand that.

"I never ask him why he is the way he is, but I guess he has his reasons.

"He opens up when I talk to him ... and I've talked to him an hour at a time ... and, no, it isn't a one-sided conversation.

"Thomas is the type who uses his teammates ... by that I mean their blocking. If he seems to be hesitant getting away sometimes (as it appeared Sunday against the Forty Niner defense), it's just because he's waiting to find daylight and then he explodes.

"Sometimes it looks like he's not doing anything," Landry admitted.

But, Thomas' statistics disprove that supposition—a fact which may interest the Miami Dolphins more in the Super Bowl Jan. 16 than the fact Thomas is "unique."

At Monticello Raceway

Night of the Fog

MONTICELLO

Fans at Monticello Raceway Monday night were no better off than those at home who had their live television races from the Catskill track banned by the state Court of Appeals.

Those in the stands were fogged out" as all they caught was a furious rush to the wire and a three-horse photo for win the evening's feature.

Harmattan got her nose up ahead of Miss Tree, with early leader River Road Boy only a half-length back. Harmattan, driven by Mike Gagliardi, was fourth at the three-quarters, third in the middle of the stretch and got home on top in the last few strides to pay $6.20, $3.60, and $3.20.

A 6-2 daily double of Hopeful Venture and Busy Time returned $9.80.

A crowd of 1,604 bet $226,586. The off-track handle was $330,094.

Meanwhile, an official of the New York City Off-Track Betting Corp. (OTB) suggested Tuesday the state should investigate a proposed sale of Yonkers Raceway.

The suggestion by Ken Auletta, executive director of OTB, was the latest shot fired in a fight between the betting corporation and the harness race tracks.

Auletta insisted that the big stockholders of Yonkers raceway stand to make a $30-million windfall by selling the track to Pennsylvania investors. And he said that if that were so, then business can't be so bad at Yonkers Raceway.

"It is an elementary fact of business," Auletta said in a written statement, "that Yonkers would not be able to earn a $30-million windfall by the sale of a raceway if their profits were not already excessive.

"No potential buyer," he added, "would buy for that price unless he first determined that the current profits were more than adequate."

Auletta based his calculation of a $30-million windfall on a report offer of $47 per share for stock which Auletta said had a book value of $17 per share according to the corporation's 1970 annual report. Auletta said the Tananbaum family those would make $30 million because the family holds one million shares.

Arlington Tops Ganders on Mats

STONE RIDGE

A victory by Tom Barry in the opening match may have given Rondout Valley hopes of picking up its first wrestling win of the season Tuesday. But Arlington quickly stifled that thought by taking all but one of the rest of the events and beating the Ganders, 40-7.

It was Rondout's third straight defeat.

Barry stopped Ken Media, 14-4, in the 100 lb. class. Rondout then had to wait for Dave DuBois' 6-4 triumph over Mark Gordon at 169 lbs. for its next points.

The results:

Arlington 40 — Rondout Valley 7

100 lbs.—Tom Barry (RV) dec. Ken Media, 14-4.
107 lbs.—George Velky (A) dec. Steve Coddington, 8-2.

The Way to Win

General Gave Up Too Soon

By MIKE ROTHENBERGER

They tell of the French General who had led his men into fierce battle but was forced to shout the command for them to retreat when the enemy began to overpower them. As they backed away from their pursuers they came across a large cave at the base of a hill. The General signaled his men to take refuge inside the cave. For many hours they waited for a chance to escape but the enemy remained just outside.

The long night passed and the morning dawned but the General had not slept. He spent the night in a small room of the cave which had been hewn out of solid rock. He lighted the room with a candle which he carried in his pocket.

All night long he tried to think of some strategy that would enable him to save his men from the enemy. Silently he sat on the damp cave floor as he pondered, and then something caught his eye. He saw a small spider hanging from a tiny thread that was attached to the ceiling. The General watched intently as the spider swung his weight in an effort to attach his web to the side wall of the cave. But the distance was too great and he dropped back to his original position.

He waited awhile and then tried again, but to no avail. Again and again; six, seven and eight times he attempted to reach the wall, each time coming closer but not enough. The General was intrigued by his persistence. He watched intently as the tiny spider swung again for the ninth time. This time he was successful, he reached the wall and securely fastened his web.

At that instant, the General knew, the answer to his dilemma. He realized that he had given up too soon. He ralized that he had lacked the courage and determination to inspire his men. He leaped to his feet, shouted the command for his men to go forward and defeat their enemy and that is what they did.

Many are they who have given up and stopped just short of success because they lacked the courage and determination to try a little harder, to press a little farther toward their goals.

We have but to turn the pages of history to find the accounts of many men and women who achieved the impossible because they refused to accept defeat. Because of such people the world has continued to progress.

We have electric lights in our homes and offices today because Edison refused to give up. Even though he failed more than 10,000 times in his efforts to produce a practical incandescent light bulb, he relentlessly persevered until he accomplished the impossible.

Then there were the Wright Brothers, Alexander Graham Bell, Marconi, and a legion of others who made great contributions to mankind, because they refused to stop short of their cherished goals.

And so it will be through the ages to come. Many will falter and stop far short of their possibilities, but others will make the most of everything they have. They will work and strive and advance and never stop until they have offered their worthwhile contribution to make the world a better place.

Accident Victim Condition Is 'Serious'

KINGSTON

A 24-year-old Cottekill man today was reported in serious condition at Kingston Hospital where he was taken by Doctors Ambulance Monday after his car was involved in a traffic accident on upper Broadway in this city.

Carl J. Davis, of Box 16, Cottekill, suffered a severe laceration of the neck that extended several inches under his left ear, according to authorities. He also suffered injuries of the left shoulder and complained of pains of the chest.

Police reports noted that Kenneth Karpe, 41, of Box 283, R. D. 3, Stony Hollow, was driving a tractor-trailer southbound on Broadway when a small car driven by Davis appeared to be making a U turn in front of the truck near Liberty Street.

Karpe told police he was unable to stop because of slippery conditions of the pavement and his truck hit the Davis vehicle which continued on and struck a trailer owned by Van's Auto Express Inc., of 601 Albany Avenue.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Pure ocean water has a blue color because salt water does not absorb the blue rays of sunlight as it does the red rays. The World Almanac says that the Mediterranean is quite blue because there are few large rivers carrying impurities into it, and there is a constant stream of salt water entering it from the Atlantic.

GIRL FANTASIES: (Q) I think about girls all the time. Can you help me stop?

I am 13 and the girl I love is 12. I love her so much that I have a hard time trying to control myself. Could you help me? —Girl Crazy in Alabama

(A.) You are not so crazy as you think you are. Many boys your age have fantasies similar to yours. Some of them when they are awake, some when they are asleep, some at both times.

This pressure would be much easier on you if you would fill more of your waking hours with activities—sports, studies, chores, conversation with boys or girls or adults, reading, hobbies.

You have a great deal of energy, and some of it could be expended on more useful things than you are now concentrating on.

Let some—but only a part—of your reading be a good sex education book. Go to your library and ask for one. Don't be ashamed to ask for it. You are not the only boy who thinks about sex.

About your girl friend—if you really love her, as you say you do, you won't do anything that might get her into trouble.

TOO BIG? (Q.) I think the idea of mini answers at the bottom of your column is great. I remember seeing one for small-chested girls but not for big ones. I'm 13 and wear a 36D bra. Don't you think that's too big?

I hear some people say that when you lose weight your bosom still stays big. I am on a diet now and I wonder what the results will be.—Concerned in Connecticut.

(A.) If you lose a great deal of weight, you may lose an inch or two in the bust. But I doubt if you want or need to go that far. I agree that a very big bosom can be worrisome in these days when to be skinny is to be in fashion.

But 36D is not too big. When you are older and have learned how to handle it, your bust may be a distinct asset to you.

And there are things you can do now. Avoid boned, pointed bras. Look for smooth body bras without uplifts. Emphasize softness, not size. Do not wear clothes that are tight in front. Loose blouses or sweaters will fall across your breasts and make them appear soft rather than big.

Never slump to minimize your bust. Strand straight, shoulders back.

'Mod Squad' . . . Too Painful

NEW YORK (AP) — There comes an occasional night when, despite the work-a-day viewer's yearning to shuck real-life problems for the fantasy world of a favorite television action show, escape is cut off.

Tuesday night was one of them. "Mod Squad," usually a reliable escape hatch, started by having Pete Cochran get a brain concussion, and for the rest of the hour he was staggering around trying to solve a case, gasping for breath and with cloudy vision. It was just too painful for relaxed viewing and besides, heavy breathing and staggering becomes boring and irksome after a few minutes.

A bit later, 'Marcus Welby, M.D." came along with a clinical treatment on German measles, mildly diluted by a story line. It explored in detail the danger to unborn children when the mothers suffer from the disease during prenancy.

Much of the hour—first of a two-part story—concerned the women's fears of having a deformed or retarded child, and a debate about an abortion.

NBC's Tuesday night special was a documentary, "Man Is My Name," an hour-long film report by Pierre D. Gaisseau of a visit more than a year ago among primitive tribesmen in an unexplored New Guinea jungle. The film concentrated on the reaction of the tribesmen when confronted with such items as steel axes, battery-run record players blaring rock tunes, cigarettes and a life-size, inflatable plastic dummy in a bikini.

The natives, who are cannibals, treated the modern inventions as if they were toys. Nothing much happened during the hour, the photography was often shakey. With sharper editing and a brighter narration, it might have been boiled down to an entertaining half hor.

NBC will mark the 20th anniversary of its "Today" show on Friday, Jan. 14 by having a reunion of the show's four hosts and three of the women who served as "Today" girls.

Taking over a portion of the show will be Dave Garroway, the original host who served from 1952 to 1961; John Chancellor who followed for a year or so; Hugh Downs who retired last fall, and Frank McGee who succeeded him.

Jack Lescoulie, who worked with Garroway for nine years on the daily program, will return for the day and so will Estelle Parsons, Helen O'Connell and Betsy Palmer—each a "Today" girl in her time. Frank Blair, the newscaster, is the only on-camera regular still with the show, and Paul Cunningham, now a news reporter, was at the outset one of the program's writers.

Bridge

Doomsday Bid Dooms Hand

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand might well be taken from a beginner's course on bridge. The bidding is simple and straight forward.

With 13 high-card points North has a sound but minimum-type diamond opening. With 12 high-card points and five hearts, South has a normal good heart response. North is delighted with hearts, but contents himself with a single raise because he does not want to be in game unless his partner has real values and not the 6 or 7 point minimum he might have bid with one heart.

The raise to two hearts is South's cup of tea and he jumps to the heart game.

West opens the jack of clubs. South wins and knocks out the ace of trumps. Later on he draws trumps and loses tricks to the other two aces. Of course, if East and West forget to take the ace of spades South winds up with an overtrick.

Experts would bid the hand exactly the same way, but we saw it mangled by a couple of players. The bidding started out nicely but after North's raise to two hearts South decided to try a bid of three diamonds. He played this as a force and we suppose he had some idea that maybe there would be a slam in the combined hands.

North jumped to four hearts. South passed, but now West decided to try an unusual defense. He opened the ace and another diamond. Then he grabbed his ace of trumps and led a third diamond for his partner to ruff.

The defense would be unusual without that extra bid. As it was South had dug his own grave.

Board Sets Second Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board, torn by indecision and uncertain of its own legal powers, set another meeting today after failing in a third try at cutting a 12 per cent raise for about 100,000 aerospace workers.

The board, reportedly split 10 to 5 against approving the full raise, worked off and on for about nine hours Tuesday in separate meetings of its labor, business and public members. The board never convened in full session.

At the end, at least three members openly questioned whether the board has the power to roll back raises to a specific figure, as the five business members reportedly want to do with the 12-per-cent aerospace raise.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and President Floyd E. Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, whose union members' raises are at stake, questioned whether the board could legally do more than veto an unacceptable contract.

"I personally believe the board has only the power to say yes or no," said Woodcock, a labor member of the board.

"I raise the same question," said Smith, also a member.

Public member William G. Caples, president of Kenyon College in Ohio, said the board has only a veto power. But Caples said he thinks the board can set standards to guide labor and management in revising any rejected contract to gain acceptance.

Virgil Day, who is a General Electric Co. vice president and a business member of the board, has said all five busines members want to trim the aerospace raise to about 8 per cent or less. Labor members seek approval of the full 12 per cent.

The five public members of the board were reported by various sources to be opposed to the full 12-per-cent raise, but apparently could not agree on a figure.

The aerospace contracts cover UAW and IAM employes at six aerospace firms.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department announced it has obtained a temporary restraining order barring an Elizabeth, N.J., landlord from evicting a tenant who declined to pay $195 for an apartment identical to those rented in the same building for $160.

A Justice spokesman said this was the first such action since Phase 2 economic controls went into effect last November.

Nixon to Unveil Projects To Aid Space Industry

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, awaiting the arrival of Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, planned today to unveil new projects to aid the ailing space industry.

Sato arrives today from Tokyo for a two-day summit session with Nixon at the Western White House Thursday and Friday.

But domestic programs and policies also preoccupied the President who was to meet at 1 p.m. EST with National Aeronautics and Space Agency Administrator James Fletcher and his deputy, George M. Low, on programs for future space travel and exploration.

It was the second day in a row since his arrival Monday evening that Nixon focused attention on helping hard-hit industries, particularly on the West Coast.

He made a quick trip to San Diego Tuesday to disclose federally sponsored construction of 12 tankers at the National Steel and Shipbuilding Co. there and the Todd Shipyards in San Pedro at a cost of $120 million.

Amid the cheers of some 2,000 shipyard workers wearing red, white and blue hard hats, Nixon said that former World War II enemies like Japan had driven the United States into a "second-class position" in shipbuilding.

Japan is currently the world's leading shipbuilding nation and the United States is fifth.

The President was in a bantering mood and signed a lot of autographs on hard hats before taking leave of the shipyard workers. One of them shouted "I hope you win again, Dick," as Nixon departed smiling.

The President was expected to remain at his villa overlooking the Pacific until Saturday, or possibly Sunday—his 59th birthday.

He also had staff meetings on tap today with his chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, and was expected to continue working on the first draft of his State of the Union address which he will deliver in Washington at 12:30 p.m. EST Jan. 20.

Nixon said he chose the midday hour, instead of evening prime TV time, "because Congress prefers it" at that time.

The President had no plans to meet before Thursday with Sato who will be relaxing at nearby Newport Beach after a long and tiring jet flight from Tokyo.

U.S. Bombers Launches Attack

SAIGON (AP) — A U. S. fighter-bomber today made the first American air attack in North Vietnam since five days of heavy raids there ended last Thursday, the U.S. Command announced. It also reported several North Vietnamese MIG jets sighted along the border between North Vietnam and Laos in the last 48 hours.

"There's been no engagements with the MIGs, however," a U.S. spokesman said. "They haven't chosen to get close enough."

Other U.S. military sources said the enemy jets were harassing American planes attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and possibly were trying to lure U.S. fighter-bombers into North Vietnam to be engaged by a superior MIG force.

The attack into North Vietnam was made by an Air Force F105. A communique said it fired one Shrike missile at an antiaircraft radar site "which resulted in the suspected destruction of the site."

It was the first so-called protective reaction strike of the new year.

Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers attacked North Vietnamese positions in the northern quarter of South Vietnam after fighting erupted along the DMZ for the first time in weeks.

Ten North Vietnamese troops and three South Vietnamese marines were killed in a fight less than two miles below the eastern flank of the DMZ that divides the two Vietnams, the Saigon command said. Seven marines were reported wounded.

The B52s attacked North Vietnamese infiltration routes, bunker complexes and storage sites in the southern half of the DM and at the entrance to the A Shau valley bordering Laos.

Other waves of B52 bombers kept up their heavy raids against North Vietnamese positions in Laos along with scores of smaller tactical fighter-bombers.

In another battle along the coast 215 miles northeast of Saigon, South Vietnamese militiamen reported killing 24 enemy soldiers with the help of air and artillery strikes, while suffering no casualties.

Elsewhere, two South Vietnamese were killed and 17 wounded by a terrorist grenade tossed into a restaurant near the district town of Trang Bang, 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Command disclosed that American helicopters accidentally fired into a column of South Vietnamese troops they were supporting in the Mekong Delta 25 miles southwest of Rach Gia. A spokesman said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and seven were wounded.

Hanoi Issues Terms For POWs Release

HONG (AP) — North Vietnam said today that the United States must abandon its policy of Vietnamizing the war to secure the release of Americans held prisoner by Hanoi.

Radio Hanoi, in a Vietnamese-language broadcast, said the "only way for (President) Nixon to get the U.S. prisoners of war back to their families" is to follow "two basic points:

"1. Completely end the war of aggression in Vietnam and withdraw all its troops from Vietnam, and

"2. Completely end the Vietnamization policy of continuing the war."

The broadcast said the Vietnamization policy was a "plot to withdraw U.S. troops but still continue the war of American aggression by puppet forces under U.S. direction and with U.S. support and supplies."

Reiterating that the Vietnamization program is a continuation of the U.S. war, Radio Hanoi continued:

"Once again we directly tell Nixon that as long as the U.S. still stubbornly prolongs the war, the more U.S. troops will continue to die in vain and the longer the men caught red-handed while creating crimes will be kept from reuniting with their families.

"Whether the U.S. prisoners of war can go home or not depends entirely on the policy of Nixon, whether he wants to end the war of aggression in Vietnam or not end it."

Radio Hanoi termed its broadcast a "commentary answering the lies and falsehoods voiced by Nixon" in his television interview Sunday.

Further Korean Troop Reduction Being Discussed by Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration officials are starting to discuss a further reduction of U.S. troops in South Korea, possibly late this year.

Pentagon sources indicate some administration officials favor a total pullout of U.S. ground forces while others, notably the Joint Chiefs of Staff contend the United States should station at least a fire-brigade-type force in Korea.

U.S. troop strength in Korea was scaled down to 43,000 men last spring, a reduction of about 20,000. One Army infantry division was returned to the United States and inactivated. The remaining American division was pulled off the demilitarized zone and replaced by South Korean soldiers.

The withdrawal from Korea has been part of a widespread reduction of U.S. military forces in Asia, including Vietnam, Thailand, the Philippines, Japan and elsewhere.

These reductions in Asia have kept pace with an over-all retrenchment in the number of Americans under arms as the United States has disengaged gradually from the Vietnam war and de-emphasized overseas military commitments in general.

In line with the Nixon doctrine, the United States has undertaken a $1-billion program to modernize South Korea's 670,000-man armed forces so they can defend their own soil without the help of U.S. troops.

However, Seoul is expected to rely on U.S. airpower for some time because the South Korean air force is rated a poor match for the Russian-equipped North Korean air force.

Some officials advocate withdrawing the remaining U.S. Army division and replacing it with a brigade of the 25th Infantry Division now in Hawaii. A division numbers more than 15,000 men; a brigade, normally fewer than 5,000.

This replacement unit would serve as a fire brigade ready for use in emergencies anywhere in the Pacific area.

Before the Vietnam war, the Army maintained the 173rd Airborne Brigade on Okinawa for just that purpose. But the 173rd has been shipped to the United States, and some military planners feel a Pacific theater fire brigade should be based in Korea rather than Okinawa, where political control has been returned to Japan.

The timing and scope of withdrawals from South Korea, will depend, among other things, on progress in modernizing Korean forces, the timetable for return of some 50,000 South Korean troops from Vietnam, whether North Korea becomes more or less belligerent toward South Korea, and whether the United States can afford to keep substantial numbers of its soldiers in Korea.

Harrisburg 8 Trial Postponed One Week

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The trial of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and seven other war protestors on charges of plotting to kidnap presidential advisor Henry Kissinger has been postponed for one week until Jan. 17.

Federal Judge R. Dixon Herman said Tuesday the trial could not began as scheduled next Monday because the defendants have filed suit against him in the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Judge Herman said he would meet next Monday with the defendants and their attorneys. He said defense counsel would have to change its policy of representing more than one of the defendants at the same time.

"In a conspiracy trial it is almost unheard of to have a lawyer represent more than one defendant," Herman said. "I don't see how there can not be a conflict."

Former U. S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, a member of the defense team, challenged Judge Herman's contention but agreed to discuss the matter with the jurist next week.

Judge Herman also said nearly 600 of the 2,200 veniremen called for the trial had asked to be excused from jury duty. He said the court has not yet acted on the jurist's requests.

A hearing scheduled for Tuesday in connection with materials confiscated during FBI searches of the homes of two defendants in New York and Philadelphia was cancelled after an agreement was reached.

The government said that no evidence seized in the raids would be used by the government during the trial and Herman ordered the material to be returned. The defense then agreed to drop its action.
